COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Frustrated Ohio lawmakers ground out a record high $633 million school foundation bill Tuesday night but were unable to clear other obstacles and bring the seven-month session to an end.

Leaders surveyed a series of snarls just before midnight and agreed on a recess until Aug. 31, when final attempts will be made to resolve a few remaining major issues.

These include the year-old reapportionment problem, a $278 million capital improvements bill, and an embattled measure to establish municipal courts in Fremont, Mason, and Vermilion.

Legislative leaders will meet Friday for a skeleton session devoted to the signing of bills and other routine business. Next floor sessions will come on the 31st.

Victim Saved Mate's Life

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. (AP) — "The boat flipped over and Jim yelled 'I can't swim.' Bob gave him the life preserver—the only one. It was Bob that saved Jim's life."

Charyl Navin, 21, of Lincoln, Neb., was describing the drowning of Robert Goldfarb, 23, of New Rochelle, N.Y., after he had saved the life of a fellow crewman aboard the yacht on which Frank Sinatra and actress Mia Farrow are vacationing.

Goldfarb, Miss Navin, the yacht steward James O. Grimes and Margaret Whittemore, 21, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., were rowing a small boat back to the yacht when the drowning occurred early Tuesday.

"We were out about 15 minutes," Miss Navin said. "There were heavy waves and a strong wind and the water began coming in over the stern. Then the boat sank, right under us."

She said after the boat was tossed over in the waves, Goldfarb became exhausted trying to keep Grimes close to the boat and afloat.

She and Miss Whittemore decided to swim to the yacht.

"We couldn't see any lights on shore but the yacht was brightly lighted."

The girls said they must have been in the choppy water for nearly an hour before they could get close enough to the yacht, the Southern Breeze, to shout for help.

"We screamed and a launch was sent out to pick us up. And then they went to the dinghy and got Jim," Miss Whittemore said.

Goldfarb was not found.

He was a graduate of the New York Maritime Academy at Fort Schuyler, N.Y., and had been a crewman on yachts and tankers. He leaves a widow.

The yacht skipper, Capt. William Cannon of Houston, Tex., said Sinatra and his guests were "shocked and appalled at the tragic event."

Sinatra was not available for comment.

Ship Journal May Decide Jurisdiction

By SID MOODY
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Ten minutes before he was shot to death on the bridge, Capt. Rogelio Diaz of the old banana boat Seven Seas made a routine entry in his log.

That notation may settle the question of who will prosecute Ramirez, 35, the Cuban who officials said admitted that he killed Diaz after a wild political argument then went on to slaughter four other members of the crew.

The entry in the ship's log, made at 10 p.m. placed the position of the Seven Seas two miles west of Sombbrero Light in the Florida Keys.

It was just 10 minutes later, said the only known survivor aboard the death ship, that Ramirez ran amok with a revolver, killing the captain, then the mate and finally three other crewmen.

The notation by Diaz placed the vessel within the three-mile limit of Florida, making it a state or a federal case without any international complications. The Seven Seas flew the Panamanian flag.

Aaron Foosaner, assistant U.S. attorney, said the case appears to fall into the jurisdiction of Monroe County, which embraces the Florida Keys.

Ramirez, a former Cuban lobsterman, fled the vessel in a small skiff, apparently after an unsuccessful effort to take the Seven Seas to Cuba, and was picked up in the Gulf Stream Tuesday.

He said Diaz had threatened to turn him over to Cuban exiles in Tampa as a supporter of Fidel Castro, and had pulled a knife on him as the argument raged. He said he blazed away, dropping the captain in a pool of blood, then raced below to kill the others in their bunks.

"It was either me or them," he told interrogators.

Ramirez said he threw the body of the captain and another shipmate overboard and then left the ship in the 14-foot aluminum skiff. He was found by a German freighter about 60 miles south of here drifting in the skiff, a 38-caliber pistol in his belt with a baby-food jar full of spare bullets. Fired shells of similar caliber were found on the Seven Seas.

Ramirez was brought to Miami in custody of U.S. immigration authorities where the matter of jurisdiction must be determined.

If it is decided the Seven Seas registered under the Panamanian flag, was within the three-mile U.S. continental limit, Florida probably will have jurisdiction. If the slayings occurred outside the limit, either Panama or the United States could prosecute, as the Seven Seas is American owned.

Still missing is the ship's cook, Gerald Davison. Authorities said Ramirez told them he had not shot him.

The Seven Seas seemed almost a recreation of a grade B South Pacific thriller when she was spotted Sunday, a drifting derelict. Years ago a graceful schooner, her masts had long since been taken out and replaced by a crude superstructure. Her port holes were sealed, her steel hull caked with gray paint.

Missile Site Safety Aids Went Awry

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — Deep in an underground silo sheathing a Titan 2 missile something went awry with the safety devices.

An explosion and flames thundered through the "gun barrel" of the missile complex Monday afternoon, killing 53 civilian workers.

"These things are not supposed to happen," said Capt. Douglas Wood, public information officer for Little Rock Air Force Base, headquarters for the 18 missile sites in this region.

"We have many safety features, but the fact that it did happen contradicts these safety factors."

Heading an Air Force investigation ordered by President Johnson is Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert.

Zuckert and Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., were due to arrive at the Little Rock airport today and head to the complex 10 miles northwest of Searcy.

An Air Force investigation team also is continuing its probe, begun after about 100 rescue workers finished the task of removing bodies from the smoke-filled 155-foot-deep silo.

There were only two survivors of the blast and flash fire which apparently erupted somewhere on or around the second or third levels of the nine-level complex where the workers were renovating the site.

The missile, loaded with liquid fuel, was in the silo but did not burn. There was no danger of a nuclear explosion, Wood said.

Ex-Senator Daniels Dies Of Pneumonia

GREENFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A case of pneumonia apparently contracted while attending a convention in New Orleans has claimed the life of former state senator and representative Albert L. Daniels.

Daniels died Tuesday in Greenfield Municipal Hospital at the age of 73. He had returned Saturday from New Orleans where he had attended a Disabled American Veterans convention.

Daniels, survived by his widow, began his political career by serving from 1922 through 1925 as mayor of Greenfield.

He served two terms in the Ohio House beginning in 1935, and 12 years in the Senate. Daniels won the Republican nomination for Congress in the 6th District in 1956 but lost the subsequent election.

Viet Force Fights To Besieged Camp

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. military sources in Pleiku reported a large Vietnamese relief force reached the besieged special forces camp at Duc Co tonight with little resistance from the Viet Cong.

A two-mile convoy of infantry and armored detachments had been fighting its way westward for three days through guerrilla ambushes and roadblocks in an effort to break the siege lines that have ringed Duc Co since June 3.

How many of these troops may have been involved in the final push was not disclosed. But at the last previous report all were within six miles of their goal, a western outpost 220 miles northeast of Saigon on a strategic cross-country highway.

The highway, Route 19, runs through the central highlands from the supply port of Qui Nhon on the South China Sea, to the Cambodian frontier at a point five miles west of Duc Co.

A dispatch from Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett in Pleiku said that, despite the troops' closing push, the siege persisted.

The Viet Cong were reported to have moved in behind the relief force and again cut Route 19, the only land route to government-held territory, in several places.

Both government forces and the Viet Cong have suffered heavy casualties in the fighting in and around Duc Co, whose neighboring villages are all flying Viet Cong flags.

U.S. sources in Pleiku, the corps headquarters 30 miles northwest of Duc Co, said "We have been waiting for weeks for permission to clear the Viet Cong out of this natural highway from Cambodia into Viet Nam. We have enough forces there now to try and do the job."

The airstrip at Duc Co was still judged unusable late today, U.S. sources said. There were hopes that by Thursday the relief forces would have cleared a sufficient area around the strip to permit supplies to be sent in.

In the Mekong Delta, south of Saigon, the Viet Cong continued harassment of government outposts, watchtowers and district towns in Chong Thien Province. Nineteen installations have been hit by mortar or other fire in the past seven days.

Two outposts and a district town were attacked Tuesday night. Government casualties were termed light at one outpost and none was reported at the other two installations. Viet Cong casualties, if any, were not known.

LBJ Signs Water Bill

Desalinization Urged by 1970

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today a $185 million bill to step up the program for turning salt water into fresh water and set a goal of a breakthrough by 1970.

After declaring that "desalting is not a dream" any longer but within reach, the President turned to another water problem—the emergency resulting from a four-year drought in the Northeast.

The governors of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, mayors of big cities in these states, members of Congress and key government officials met in the White House after the bill-signing ceremony to look into what Johnson termed ways and means of facing up to an emergency.

Some of the participants obviously were looking for federal help.

The saline water conversion bill, extending the program through 1972, has been pushed hard by Johnson. He told his science adviser to bear down on desalting programs "as if you knew you were going to run out of drinking water in the next six months." And the White House says further legislative proposals will be submitted next year.

The present bill authorizes an additional $15 million for research and development, making $35 million available for next year, counting carry-over funds. Additional amounts above $90 million, up to $185 million, would require additional congressional authorization.

The Delaware Basin water conference was called after Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall reported to Johnson the biggest cities of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey face a water impasse by early September.

Johnson has suggested desalination as a possibility for easing the long-term water problems of the Northeast.

Although rains in the past few days slightly eased the immediate crisis—New York City's reservoirs had a net gain for the first time in 67 days—there was no prospect of a natural solution to the problem. Udall has said only a prolonged series of rains or a hurricane could do this.

Bad Weather Hits Manry Near England

FALMOUTH, England (AP) — A fog, high wind and tides plagued Robert Manry today as he neared England on his epic sailing adventure across the Atlantic.

The 48-year-old Cleveland newspaperman was last seen two days ago 290 miles out and headed northward. It was believed he had two objects:

1. To avoid the busy shipping lanes as much as possible, and
2. To borrow some favorable wind for his 13½-foot sloop Tinkerbell.

A coastline fog this morning slowed down shipping off lands end and discouraged any private attempts to meet Manry.

British Naval officials said the American probably was buffeted Tuesday night by winds up to 45 miles an hour, but they pointed out he has come through much rougher stuff since he left Falmouth, Mass., on June 1.

Manry originally estimated he would reach his goal — 3,200 miles from the starting point—around Aug. 15 if he has any luck, he's apparently going to come very close. The best guess for his arrival now centers on late Sunday or Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has recommended Senate approval of a proposed consular treaty with Russia.

But five members voiced strong objections, denouncing the proposed treaty as a vehicle for potential espionage and subversion.

Committee approval came on a voice vote.

The dissenters were Sens. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, John J. Williams, R-Del., and Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark chairman of the committee, said the treaty would help eliminate friction between the two nations and provide greater protection for Americans traveling in Russia.

The proposal would allow the Soviet Union to open consular offices in key American cities, while the United States would do the same in Russia.

Viet Force Fights To Besieged Camp

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. military sources in Pleiku reported a large Vietnamese relief force reached the besieged special forces camp at Duc Co tonight with little resistance from the Viet Cong.

A two-mile convoy of infantry and armored detachments had been fighting its way westward for three days through guerrilla ambushes and roadblocks in an effort to break the siege lines that have ringed Duc Co since June 3.

How many of these troops may have been involved in the final push was not disclosed. But at the last previous report all were within six miles of their goal, a western outpost 220 miles northeast of Saigon on a strategic cross-country highway.

The highway, Route 19, runs through the central highlands from the supply port of Qui Nhon on the South China Sea, to the Cambodian frontier at a point five miles west of Duc Co.

A dispatch from Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett in Pleiku said that, despite the troops' closing push, the siege persisted.

In the Mekong Delta, south of Saigon, the Viet Cong continued harassment of government outposts, watchtowers and district towns in Chong Thien Province. Nineteen installations have been hit by mortar or other fire in the past seven days.

Two outposts and a district town were attacked Tuesday night. Government casualties were termed light at one outpost and none was reported at the other two installations. Viet Cong casualties, if any, were not known.

A U.S. briefing officer said the series of light attacks appeared to be static harassment rather than a buildup for heavier assaults. He added that they had not been of sufficient intensity to draw reaction forces so far.

U.S. spokesmen said U.S. and Vietnamese planes destroyed more than 120 buildings in South Viet Nam during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. and "large number" of Viet Cong were believed to have been killed.

One U.S. Air Force F105 was lost today in an air strike against North Viet Nam, but the pilot, Capt. Lawrence D. Wilson of Cleveland, Ohio, was reported picked up unharmed from the South China Sea off Vinh. An Army helicopter rescued him within 10 minutes, spokesmen said.

The powerful rocket thundered away from Cape Kennedy on schedule at 9:31 a.m. EST on the start of the "paper moon" shot.

The flight control center reported 50 minutes later that the rocket had performed as planned and drilled the metal model of the Project Surveyor moonship onto the desired course at a speed of about 23,700 miles an hour.

An announcement said several hours might be required to determine the precise path but that tracking data indicated the rocket "was right on the money."

The bull's eye for shots was an empty spot in space, about 240,000 miles and 63 hours away.

The target zone is on the path the moon follows as it orbits the earth, but about 30,000 miles from the moon's present position.

The space agency set the "paper moon" course to obtain trajectory data for an attempt scheduled in the last quarter of this year to land a Surveyor spacecraft gently on the lunar surface to determine if it is strong enough to support vehicles carrying astronauts.

The flight control center reported five minutes after launching that the second stage fired on schedule and the launch was (Continued on Page 2)

U.S. spokesmen said U.S. and Vietnamese planes destroyed more than 120 buildings in South Viet Nam during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. and "large number" of Viet Cong were believed to have been killed.

One U.S. Air Force F105 was lost today in an air strike against North Viet Nam, but the pilot, Capt. Lawrence D. Wilson of Cleveland, Ohio, was reported picked up unharmed from the South China Sea off Vinh. An Army helicopter rescued him within 10 minutes, spokesmen said.

The flight control center reported 50 minutes later that the rocket had performed as planned and drilled the metal model of the Project Surveyor moonship onto the desired course at a speed of about 23,700 miles an hour.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today a $185 million bill to step up the program for turning salt water into fresh water and set a goal of a breakthrough by 1970.

After declaring that "desalting is not a dream" any longer but within reach, the President turned to another water problem — the emergency resulting from a four-year drought in the Northeast.

The governors of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, mayors of big cities in these states, members of Congress and key government officials met in the White House after the bill-signing ceremony to look into what Johnson termed ways and means of facing up to an emergency.

Some of the participants obviously were looking for federal help.

The saline water conversion bill, extending the program through 1972, has been pushed hard by Johnson. He told his science adviser to bear down on desalting programs "as if you knew you were going to run out of drinking water in the next six months." And the White House says further legislative proposals will be submitted next year.

The present bill authorizes an additional $15 million for research and development, making $35 million available for next year, counting carry-over funds. Additional amounts above $90 million, up to $185 million, would require additional congressional authorization.

The Delaware Basin water conference was called after Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall reported to Johnson the biggest cities of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey face a water impasse by early September.

Johnson has suggested desalination as a possibility for easing the long-term water problems of the Northeast.

Although rains in the past few days slightly eased the immediate crisis—New York City's reservoirs had a net gain for the first time in 67 days—there was no prospect of a natural solution to the problem. Udall has said only a prolonged series of rains or a hurricane could do this.

REA Elects Clay As President

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Rural Electric Cooperative Association wound up its annual two-day meeting here by electing Frank Clay of Larue as president and making a number of key appointments.

Clay succeeds Foster Scott of Chandlerville. Other officers elected at the meeting which ended Tuesday were Lloyd Leatherberry of Carrollton, first vice president; Glen Mosman, Nevada, second vice president; and Arthur Erman, Coshocton, secretary-treasurer.

Craft Hurls Dummy Load

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An Atlas-Centaur rocket scored a much-needed test flight success today and hurled a dummy payload toward a make-believe moon in a crucial rehearsal for an attempt late this year to land instruments gently on the moon.

The powerful rocket thundered away from Cape Kennedy on schedule at 9:31 a.m. EST on the start of the "paper moon" shot.

The flight control center reported 50 minutes later that the rocket had performed as planned and drilled the metal model of the Project Surveyor moonship onto the desired course at a speed of about 23,700 miles an hour.

High St. School, Additions Should Be Ready Sept. 7

The new High St. School and the additions at Mound and Atwater should be ready for students when school opens Sept. 7. The announcement was made by Fritz Jacobs, superintendent, during last night's Board of Education meeting.

Jacobs said there is no question about the Mound and Atwater additions being ready and he said the new High St. building is "right on construction schedule."

The only thing that could hinder the expected completion date for the new building is delivery of construction materials, he added.

Superintendent Jacobs also noted that playground areas may not be ready for a week or so after school opens. Finish work along these lines will be completed as soon as construction crews move out.

THE BOARD accepted another resignation and hired a teacher to fill the vacancy.

Resigning was Mrs. Carolyn Prone, girls' physical education instructor. Employed to replace her was Miss Eileen Mart...

Senate Okays Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed today the bill to create an 11th cabinet department — Housing and Urban Development — to deal with the problems of the nation's cities.

The measure, debated for 10 years in Congress and on President Johnson's list of priority measures, was sent to confer with the House which passed it 217-184 June 16 in different form.

deck. A track of blood led from the pilot house to the railing.

A 17-year-old Honduran crewman, Burgwise Elwin, who said he had seen one of the shootings, was found in the stifling darkness of the vessel's anchor chain locker where he had cowered for 16 hours. The seaman said the ship apparently had been headed towards Cuba after the shootings until the diesel engine stopped.

Meanwhile, the Seven Seas lay at a Coast Guard dock in Key West, where she had been towed. A grimy Panamanian flag flapped from her stern. Behind the wheelhouse a pair of faded dungarees and a T-shirt were pinned to a clothes line, long since dried in the tropical sun.

Local Resident Attends IPA Meet

Philip L. Moore, Circleville, attended the International Platform Assn. convention held at the Sheraton Park Hotel, Washington, D.C.

The opening address was given by President Lyndon B. Johnson, who is also a member of the organization.

During the week, Moore met with many notables who are professional speakers and entertainers. He met and talked with Dr. Frank E. Stranges of Venice, Calif., who writes books as an authority on flying saucers. Moore's current marionette production pertains to a flying saucer.

On Saturday Moore attended a barbecue held at the DREW Pearson ranch. The food was cooked by President Johnson's ranch chef.

Four Are Placed On Probation

Four area adults have been placed on probation for three years each by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Ammer.

All four appeared before the court on a bill of information, waiving their rights to a grand jury hearing. Entering pleas of guilty to the charges were:

Betty Isaac, Route 4, charged with four counts of malicious destruction of property; Earl Jester, Route 3, charged with receiving stolen property; James Verderano, Route 4, London, charged with forgery; and Charles Carey, Route 2, New Holland, charged with receiving stolen property.

Three Motorists Cited for Speed

Three motorists, all cited for exceeding the speed limit by 10 miles per hour, forfeited $19 bonds posted in Circleville Municipal Court. They were:

Jonathan L. Wright, 25, Portsmouth; Gary C. Arnold, 21, Garden City, Mich.; Rexford A. White, 20, Columbus.

Billie Joe Jones, 42, New Holland, waived a court hearing and paid a fine of $15 and costs for driving left of center.

Dixie Officials Study Cases Suits Coincide With Vote Drive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Officials of Texas, Virginia and Alabama were examining government suits to abolish the poll tax today to determine what action to take.

In Texas, President Johnson's home state, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr said he would file an answer after the necessary study and preparation.

Similar reactions were expressed in Virginia and Alabama.

The suits were filed by the Justice Department Tuesday, the same day federal examiners began registering Negroes to vote in nine Southern counties and parishes in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

A Civil Service Commission spokesman in Washington said that 1,144 Negroes registered to vote on the first day of federally supervised registration under the 1965 voting rights law.

Both the registration and the suits to abolish the poll tax are designed to make it easier for Negroes to vote.

At Austin, Tex., two federal attorneys delivered to the federal district court clerk a petition signed by U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach charging the 63-year-old poll tax requirement served only to limit voting rights, particularly those of Negroes.

Gov. Carr and Gov. John B. Connally said they wanted to study the petition before commenting.

Carr said last week, "It's my duty to defend the laws of Texas, and in the event the U.S. attorney general challenges their validity we will meet him in the courtroom."

Virginia officials generally had little to say after a similar suit was filed at Richmond. It claimed the $1.50-per-year tax was designed solely to restrict the electorate, particularly Negro voters.

Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr. said recently the poll tax kept Virginia's elections clean by making sure only bona fide residents voted, and that a substitute would have to be found if the poll tax was struck down.

"When the people of Virginia want to repeal it, they have the right," he said.

Gov. George C. Wallace had no immediate comment after the filing of a suit in Montgomery, Ala. Other sources also were unavailable for comment and Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers was out of town. Alabama's poll tax is $1.50 per year and retroactive for two years.

In all three states the Justice Department asked that the cases be heard as soon as possible by three-judge courts. A similar request was made when the department filed suit against Mississippi's poll tax Saturday.

In the Voting Rights Act, Congress directed the attorney general to test the constitutionality of poll taxes. The act also provided for federal examiners to register Negroes.

Federal registrars were not sent into Georgia. But Negroes continued to register in large numbers at Americus, scene of recent racial troubles which resulted in one death. In three days 1,004 Negroes registered, doubling Sumter County's Negro voting population.

Andes Swept By Avalanche

PORTILLO, Chile (AP)—An avalanche roared down on a lodge at this Andes ski resort early today, killing five persons, including two U.S. citizens and a Canadian.

The avalanche crushed a camp where eight members of a ski patrol had been asleep.

National police identified the dead as Milton Oriotti, Portland, Ore.; Roland Hock, Binghamton, N.Y.; Michael Fogel, Mont Royal, Que.; and two Chileans, Manfred Arnold and Jaime Cubiazurrie, both of Santiago.

The mass of snow and ice hit the lodge, which is slightly less than half a mile from the main hotel, after smashing sections of the ski lift installed for the pre-world championship ski competition beginning this weekend.

Other members of the ski patrol, assisted by members of the U.S. and Austrian ski teams, located the bodies about an hour after the slide.

None of the foreign ski team members was reported injured.

Meany Called To Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Congress of Racial Equality members spent the night in the office of Al Bilik, president of the AFL-CIO Labor Council, in a fourth demonstration against alleged discrimination of Negroes in the construction industry.

Their sit-in demonstration started Tuesday.

There were no disturbances.

Another development was a telegraphed protest to George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

Dr. Bruce Green, president of the Cincinnati chapter of the NAACP, and Leonard Ball, Cincinnati CORE chairman, said in a telegram to Meany:

"Urgently request your personal involvement in local situation. Demonstrations by NAACP and CORE have resulted in 37 arrests thus far. Demonstrations will continue until positive resolution is achieved."

Ball also said he expects James Farmer, national CORE director, to visit Cincinnati Aug. 26.

Tuesday's sit-in was at the office of Al Bilik, president of the Cincinnati AFL-CIO Labor Council. Eleven Negro and white demonstrators spent most of the afternoon in his office, while others marched outside.

Police arrived, but when Bilik asked what they wanted, they left. There were no arrests. Bilik said he spent most of the time debating with the demonstrators.

In other action Tuesday, causes of 16 persons arrested Monday in a sit-in at the offices of Allied Construction Industries were continued by Judge John W. Keefe until Aug. 26.

Highway Project Bids Are Slated

Sealed bids will be received until 10 a. m. Tuesday in the offices of the Ohio Department of Highways, Columbus, for highway improvement projects in Pickaway, Morrow, Fayette and Fairfield counties.

The local projects are grading, draining, widening, resurfacing, and constructing a bridge over Salt Creek on .014 of a mile of State Route 159 in the Village of Tartton and in Clear Creek Twp. in Fairfield County.

Another bid will be for the grading, draining, paving widening, resurfacing and constructing a bridge over Mud Run on .669 of a mile of U. S. Route 22 in New Holland.

Local Injured Girl Transferred Here

Phyllis Ullman, 1025 S. Pickaway St., injured in an auto accident Sunday night west of Amanda on Route 22 has been transferred from Lancaster Hospital to Berger Hospital.

Miss Ullman is listed in "fair" condition by hospital authorities. Four others injured in the accident were treated and released.

Pentagon Force Wages War on Gobbledygook

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has set up an antigobbledygook task force to battle for plain talk at the DoD. Whoops! That's gobbledygook for Department of Defense.

In a memorandum, Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance referred to "the President's expressed interest in improving communications with the public by waging war on gobbledygook."

The memo said, "I am forming a task force to review attitudes, methods, and types (including written, telephone, as well as person-to-person contacts) of responses being made to the public by all components of DoD within the Washington area and worldwide."

If you tripped over that gobbledygook DoD, take a look at just a couple of the abbreviations in the Pentagon's telephone list: AAFBD (Army & Air Force Exchange and Motion Picture Services Board of Directors) or USCONARC (United States Continental Army Command).

Solis Horwitz, assistant secretary of defense (administration), was named commander of the antigobbledygook task force. The group is to offer recommendations to Vance by Nov. 1.

proceeding smoothly at that time.

The practice mission had two major goals:

— It was the fifth launching of the Atlas-Centaur and was to determine the ability of its guidance system and hydrogen-powered second stage to send a payload the size of the 2,150-pound Surveyor on a precise path to the moon.

— Engineering data was sought on a dynamic model of the spidery Surveyor vehicle. The payload is a replica of the real thing and was wired to record temperatures, vibrations, strains and noise during the critical launching phase. It also carried a radio transmitter to permit about 20 hours of tracking.

A similar attempt failed last March 2 when the 112-foot-tall rocket exploded into a massive fireball on its launch pad after a fuel valve closed inexplicably. That was the third failure in five Atlas-Centaur test firings.

After passing through the day, the payload of today's shot is intended to continue circling the globe in a great looping orbit ranging out to about 500,000 miles.

The Ranger series of spacecraft photographed the moon from close range and then crashed on the surface. The pictures did not answer the question whether the surface is strong enough to support manned landings.

Most experts believe man can safely land there, but some feel a spaceship might be swallowed in a sea of dust or otherwise be damaged by a weak surface structure. It will be up to the seven-shot Surveyor series to find.

The Surveyors will use reverse rockets to slow their speed as they approach the moon so they can land gently. The first Surveyor is to provide basic data on surface strength and take pictures. Later surveys will carry scientific instruments to dig up and analyze soil samples, measure moonquakes and make other observations for up to 30 days.

said, because the warhead had been removed while the construction crew was working on the complex. The Titan 2 is America's mightiest ballistic missile.

Wood said the complex is equipped with devices to monitor the temperature and humidity in the silo. He said the humidity must be kept "quite low" and the ideal temperature is around 60-65 degrees.

High temperature and humidity over lengthy periods would increase the pressure in the complex, he said.

Increased pressure could cause the missile's fuel to expand, creating the possibility of an explosion, Wood said.

The temperature reached 85 degrees in the silo Monday evening after the blast and Air Force officials considered venting — or releasing — some of the fuel.

The escaping fumes are toxic and newsmen were cleared from the area for a four-hour period.

The temperature began dropping, however, and the Air Force decided against venting, Wood said.

The missile is equipped with a spray system which functioned when the fire erupted. Wood said "that explains the water at the bottom of the silo."

The tragedy was the worst in the history of the Titan 2 system, which includes 54 complexes that have been operational since December 1963.

Ohioan Takes Beauty Title

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A pretty Ohio lass, Miss Gail Karen Krielow, reigns as Miss American Beauty today as she begins competition against 44 beauties from other nations for the Miss International Beauty crown.

She was selected over 14 other American contestants Tuesday night.

Miss Krielow, 21, of Richmond Heights, said "I'm very, very happy. I want to thank everyone for the wonderful care I received here."

Named first runner-up in the contest was Miss Maryland, Linda Harrison, of Berlin, Md.

Second runner-up was Miss California, June Elizabeth Lindema, a blue-eyed blonde from Costa Mesa.

High St. School, Additions Should Be Ready Sept. 7

The new High St. School and the additions at Mound and Atwater should be ready for students when school opens Sept. 7. The announcement was made by Fritz Jacobs, superintendent, during last night's Board of Education meeting.

Jacobs said there is no question about the Mound and Atwater additions being ready and he said the new High St. building is "right on construction schedule."

The only thing that could hinder the expected completion date for the new building is delivery of construction materials, he added.

Superintendent Jacobs also noted that playground areas may not be ready for a week or so after school opens. Finish work along these lines will be completed as soon as construction crews move out.

THE BOARD accepted another resignation and hired a teacher to fill the vacancy.

Resigning was Mrs. Carolyn Prone, girls' physical education instructor. Employed to replace her was Miss Eileen Mart...

Senate Okays Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed today the bill to create an 11th cabinet department — Housing and Urban Development — to deal with the problems of the nation's cities.

The measure, debated for 10 years in Congress and on President Johnson's list of priority measures, was sent to confere with the House which passed it 217-184 June 16 in different form.

The framework of both versions is the same. Senate sponsors said they expected little difficulty in working out a compromise.

The legislation essentially would upgrade the Housing and Home Finance Agency with its 13,500 employees, to Cabinet status.

HHFA originally was set up to handle the government's housing programs. But in recent years it has taken on other functions including mass transit subsidies, open space grants, urban planning, college dormitory loans and grants for public facilities including sewage and water plants.

deck. A track of blood led from the pilot house to the railing.

A 17-year-old Honduran crewman, Burghise Elwin, who said he had seen one of the shootings, was found in the stifling darkness of the vessel's anchor chain locker where he had covered for 16 hours. The seaman said the ship apparently had been headed towards Cuba after the shootings until the diesel engine stopped.

Meanwhile, the Seven Seas lay at a Coast Guard dock in Key West, where she had been towed. A grimy Panamanian flag flapped from her stern. Behind the wheel-house a pair of faded dungarees and a T-shirt were pinned to a clothes line, long since dried in the tropical sun.

The present head of HHFA, Robert C. Weaver, New York Negro, is considered a prime possibility to become the secretary in the new department.

If so, he would be the first Negro to serve in the Cabinet. Former President John F. Kennedy, who also sought Cabinet rank for HHFA but failed to get it, announced in advance he would appoint Weaver. Johnson has not revealed his intentions.

Billie Joe Jones, 42, New Holland, waived a court hearing and paid a fine of $15 and costs for driving left of center.

Dixie Officials Study Cases

Suits Coincide With Vote Drive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Officials of Texas, Virginia and Alabama were examining government suits to abolish the poll tax today to determine what action to take.

In Texas, President Johnson's home state, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr said he would file an answer after the necessary study and preparation.

Similar reactions were expressed in Virginia and Alabama.

The suits were filed by the Justice Department Tuesday, the same day federal examiners began registering Negroes to vote in nine Southern counties and parishes in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

A Civil Service Commission spokesman in Washington said that 1,144 Negroes registered to vote on the first day of federally supervised registration under the 1965 voting rights law.

Both the registration and the suits to abolish the poll tax are designed to make it easier for Negroes to vote.

At Austin, Tex., two federal attorneys delivered to the federal district court clerk a petition signed by U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach charging the 63-year-old poll tax requirement served only to limit voting rights, particularly those of Negroes.

Both Carr and Gov. John B. Connally said they wanted to study the petition before commenting.

Carr said last week, "It's my duty to defend the laws of Texas, and in the event the U.S. attorney general challenges their validity we will meet him in the courtroom."

Virginia officials generally had little to say after a similar suit was filed at Richmond. It claimed the $1.50-per-year tax was designed solely to restrict the electorate, particularly Negro voters.

Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr. said recently the poll tax kept Virginia's elections clean by making sure only bona fide residents voted, and that a substitute would have to be found if the poll tax was struck down. "When the people of Virginia want to repeal it, they have the right," he said.

Gov. George C. Wallace had no immediate comment after the filing of a suit in Montgomery, Ala. Other sources also were unavailable for comment and Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers was out of town. Alabama's poll tax is $1.50 per year and retroactive for two years.

In all three states the Justice Department asked that the cases be heard as soon as possible by three-judge courts. A similar request was made when the department filed suit against Mississippi's poll tax Saturday.

In the Voting Rights Act, Congress directed the attorney general to test the constitutionality of poll taxes. The act also provided for federal examiners to register Negroes.

Federal registrars were not sent into Georgia. But Negroes continued to register in large numbers at Americus, scene of recent racial troubles which resulted in one death. In three days 1,064 Negroes registered, doubling Sumter County's Negro voting population.

Pentagon Force Wages War on Gobbledygook

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has set up an antiboggedygook task force to battle for plain talk at the DoD. Whoops! That's gobbledygook for Department of Defense.

In a memorandum, Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance referred to "the President's expressed interest in improving communications with the public by waging war on gobbledygook."

The memo said, "I am forming a task force to review attitudes, methods, and types (including written, telephone, as well as person-to-person contacts) of responses being made to the public by all components of DoD within the Washington area and worldwide."

If you tripped over that gobbledygook DoD, take a look at just a couple of the abbreviations in the Pentagon's telephone list: AAFBD (Army & Air Force Exchange and Motion Picture Services Board of Directors) or USCONARC (United States Continental Army Command).

Andes Swept By Avalanche

Victims Include Two Americans

PORTILLO, Chile (AP)—An avalanche roared down on a lodge at this Andes ski resort early today, killing five persons, including two U.S. citizens and a Canadian.

The avalanche crushed a camp where eight members of a ski patrol had been asleep.

National police identified the dead as Milton Orliotti, Portland, Ore.; Roland Hock, Birmingham, N.Y.; Michael Fogel, Mont Royal, Que.; and two Chileans, Manfred Arnold and Jaime Cubiazurrie, both of Santiago.

The mass of snow and ice hit the lodge, which is slightly less than half a mile from the main hotel, after smashing sections of the ski lift installed for the pre-world championship ski competition beginning this weekend.

Other members of the ski patrol, assisted by members of the U.S. and Austrian ski teams, located the bodies about an hour after the slide.

None of the foreign ski team members was reported injured.

Deaths

MR. HENRY W. FLORENCE

Mr. Henry Wales Florence, 84, a former resident of Jackson Twp., died 8:15 a.m. today at Marysville.

Survivors include a son, Benjamin Florence; a stepson, Ed Ferrell; a daughter, Mrs. Ned Walker and a sister, Mrs. Elliott Miller, all of Circleville.

Highway Project Bids Are Slated

Sealed bids will be received until 10 a.m. Tuesday in the offices of the Ohio Department of Highways, Columbus, for highway improvement projects in Pickaway, Morrow, Fayette and Fairfield counties.

The local projects are grading, draining, widening, resurfacing, and constructing a bridge over Salt Creek on .014 of a mile of State Route 159 in the Village of Tarlton and in Clear Creek Twp. in Fairfield County.

Another bid will be for the grading, draining, paving widening, resurfacing and constructing a bridge over Mud Run on .669 of a mile of U. S. Route 22 in New Holland.

Local Injured Girl Transferred Here

Phyllis Ullman, 1025 S. Pickaway St., injured in an auto accident Sunday night west of Amanda on Route 22 has been transferred from Lancaster Hospital to Berger Hospital.

Miss Ullman is listed in "fair" condition by hospital authorities. Four others injured in the accident were treated and released.

Pickets Limited At Waterford

EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO (AP)—The Teamsters Union must limit its pickets to 11 at three main gates at Waterford Park Race Track under a court order.

Hancock County Circuit Court Judge Ralph Pryor issued the injunction Tuesday at the request of officials at the track in nearby Newell, W. Va.

Local 412 is trying to organize maintenance men, mutual clerks and other track employees.

Craft Hurls

proceeding smoothly at that time.

The practice mission had two major goals:

— It was the fifth launching of the Atlas-Centaur and was to determine the ability of its guidance system and hydrogen-powered second stage to send a payload the size of the 2,150-pound Surveyor on a precise path to the moon.

— Engineering data was sought on a dynamic model of the spidery Surveyor vehicle. The payload is a replica of the real thing and was wired to record temperatures, vibrations, strains and noise during the critical launching phase. It also carried a radio transmitter to permit about 20 hours of tracking.

A similar attempt failed last March 2 when the 112-foot-tall rocket exploded into a massive fireball on its launch pad after a fuel valve closed inexplicably. That was the third failure in five Atlas-Centaur test firings.

After passing through the day, the payload of today's shot is intended to continue circling the globe in a great looping orbit ranging out to about 500,000 miles.

The Ranger series of spacecraft photographed the moon from close range and then crashed on the surface. The pictures did not answer the question whether the surface is strong enough to support manned landings.

Most experts believe man can safely land there, but some feel a spaceship might be swallowed in a sea of dust or otherwise be damaged by a weak surface structure. It will be up to the seven-shot Surveyor series to find.

The Surveyors will use reverse rockets to slow their speed as they approach the moon so they can land gently. The first Surveyor is to provide basic data on surface strength and take pictures. Later surveys will carry scientific instruments to dig up and analyze soil samples, measure moonquakes and make other observations for up to 30 days.

There were no disturbances. There were no disturbances. There were no disturbances.

Another development was a telegraphed protest to George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

Dr. Bruce Green, president of the Cincinnati chapter of the NAACP, and Leonard Ball, Cincinnati CORE chairman, said in a telegram to Meany:

"Urgently request your personal involvement in local situation. Demonstrations by NAACP and CORE have resulted in 37 arrests thus far. Demonstrations will continue until positive resolution is achieved."

Ball also said he expects James Farmer, national CORE director, to visit Cincinnati Aug. 26.

Tuesday's sit-in was at the office of Al Bilik, president of the Cincinnati AFL-CIO Labor Council. Eleven Negro and white demonstrators spent most of the afternoon in his office, while others marched outside.

Police arrived, but when Bilik asked what they wanted, they left. There were no arrests. Bilik said he spent most of the time debating with the demonstrators.

In other action Tuesday, causes of 16 persons arrested Monday in a sit-in at the offices of Allied Construction Industries were continued by Judge John W. Keefe until Aug. 26.

said, because the warhead had been removed while the construction crew was working on the complex. The Titan 2 is America's mightiest ballistic missile.

Wood said the complex is equipped with devices to monitor the temperature and humidity in the silo. He said the humidity must be kept "quite low" and the ideal temperature is around 60-65 degrees.

High temperature and humidity over lengthy periods would increase the pressure in the complex, he said.

Increased pressure could cause the missile's fuel to expand, creating the possibility of an explosion, Wood said.

The temperature reached 85 degrees in the silo Monday evening after the blast and Air Force officials considered venting — or releasing — some of the fuel.

New Rehabilitation Tool

An obstacle an ex-convict has to overcome is the personal stigma he carries with him the rest of his life. Assuming he wants to lead a straight and honorable existence, always somewhere before him he can expect to be confronted by the crime he committed and the penalty he paid for it.

Many are unable to overcome the constant reminder and become habitual undesirables. Overcoming the repetitive instinct which characterizes many of those convicted of crimes against society has become a primary goal of preventive techniques.

One particularly imaginative attack on the problem has been the halfway house concept of permitting the convict to adjust himself gradually to a normal life in a normal neighborhood. There are several models of this approach, but the general theme is to permit the convicted man or woman to serve part of the sentence working with psychiatrists, sociologists and former convicts leading exemplary lives, in attempts to correct underlying neuroses and otherwise remove the causes of criminal behavior.

Another approach, newer and still relatively untried, is "cosmetic surgery."

This is surgery which removes disfigurements or other blemishes in appearance which can create an antagonistic attitude in a sensitive personality.

Many persons who go through life with misshapen ears, bulbous noses are unable to fully develop their personalities. Not even those most enthusiastic about cosmetic surgery blame such abnormalities for a life of crime, but they may cause a sensitive person to withdraw into a life devoid of friendship or any real enjoyment. Such despair often leads to deviationist behavior to attract attention.

Dr. John Simons, senior resident in plastic surgery at the University of Kansas Medical Center, has been reshaping convict faces at the rate of about two a week. He has more volunteers for his operations than he can accommodate, an indication that the technique is an important step toward a new life.

New hope for the future is one of the most important attitudes any convict needs to acquire before he is released from confinement. What better way to start a new life than with a new face, a face unmarked by either nature or the past?

Hopeful City

By John Chamberlain

MILWAUKEE, WIS. — Dynamic young Tom Van Sickle, head of the Young Republican National Federation, flew his new twin Cessna plane, his first solo flight, here from his home state of Kansas the other day to help nerve up the local Republicans. He made a speech built around a terrifying statistic: by 1968, he said, one-half of the total U. S. population will be under twenty-five years of age. The twenty-five-and-under group will have no memories of anything before the Korean War, and the only political reality they know will be that of the Great Society and the Welfare State.

What hope, then, has any political party which tries to ground itself on the idea that man is a self-starter, charged with the responsibility of making the most of himself by use of his own powers? It so happens that Tom Van Sickle had brought his question to what in my book must be rated the most hopeful city in the whole United States. For Milwaukee, months before anybody had begun talking about federal anti-poverty programs, had addressed itself firmly to the idea of wiping out discrimination in hiring. Moreover, it had done this on a purely voluntary basis that imposes no draining taxes and no looming danger of currency inflation on anybody.

The instigators of what subsequently became the Milwaukee Voluntary Equal Employment Opportunity Council were Bob Stevenson, boss of the heavy equipment company of Allis-Chalmers, and Ted Smith, head of A. O. Smith, which is famous for its auto frames. Back in 1963 Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Smith called the third-three largest employers in the Milwaukee area together for a bit of soul-searching. The result was a pledge from all concerned to do everything within their power to give a fair employment shake to Milwaukee's minority groups. This was of particular interest to Milwaukee's ninety thousand Negroes, who constitute about nine per cent of the greater Milwaukee region.

What is particularly hopeful about the Voluntary Equal Employment Opportunity Council is that it never once slackened its pace after Lyndon Johnson put Sargent Shriver and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. to the task of using tax money to the twin ends of eradicating poverty and discrimination. Having lived through WPA days, my own feeling is that federal money spent by and through a federal bureaucracy produces nothing very permanent.

The money gets stopped around; much of it goes into big social workers salaries and sterile office equipment, and people begin taking it as a windfall right, not as a spur to personal improvement and self-sufficiency. But the Milwaukee Voluntary Equal Employment organization spends nothing on self-aggrandizement. It is all business where business counts.

The membership, which began with the thirty-three, has grown to 170 firms which employ 200,000 workers. The director of the whole affair is Elmer L. Winter, head of Manpower, Inc., who says he "got to be president because I stayed the latest." Under Mr. Winter's skillful prodding Milwaukee is alive with seminars of personnel directors. One set of seminars begets another down-the-line set; the second-level supervisory personnel men meet to discuss ways of eliminating discrimination in employment.

To make things real, 170 Milwaukee companies have gone to the school guidance counselors, particularly in the inner core area of the city, with job descriptions of a quite specific type. The companies need key punch operators, secretaries, assembly people, and office machine operators, just to name a few categories. The school counselors have been amazed at the new types of employment opening in Milwaukee. "Man - marketing clinics" are held, there are periodic meetings inside the Negro community designed to show the value of education to skeptical or cynical Negro parents, and the schools are asked to give special attention to preparing young people for job interviews and to encouraging them to talk freely about themselves.

The measure of Milwaukee's success is its low unemployment rate of two-and-one-half to three per cent, which is what economists call "normal friction."

Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery: forty-four major or Chicago employers are just now picking-up the Milwaukee idea, and Madison, Racine, Kenosha and other Wisconsin cities have also followed suit. This sort of thing could be done practically anywhere in the nation. One is tempted to guess that it would spread farther and farther if Washington, D. C., would only desist and let the voluntaristic genius of a free people take over.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What is the cause of the stomach noises and rumblings that seem so embarrassing? What can be done to avoid them?

The technical name is in itself a rumbling sound, borborygmus.

The noises like distant thunder always seems to occur while in a pleasant, quiet atmosphere. It can be embarrassing.

The noises are caused by air that is trapped in the intestine. A small amount of air is normally swallowed while eating or drinking.

Sometimes an excessive amount of air is unconsciously swallowed if eating, talking and drinking are carried on at a fast pace at the same time.

Some people swallow large amounts of air if they force themselves to belch or take deep sighing breaths.

Also, there are some intestinal disorders that can cause the noises. In these cases other symptoms accompany the borborygmus.

Simple eating rules can usually prevent air swallowing. Eat slowly. Pause occasionally. Avoid the unacceptable habit of talking while chewing.

Eat smaller amounts at more frequent intervals. Inhaling the smoke of cigarettes, pipes and cigars while drinking after dinner coffee further induces the swallowing of air.

There are some mild charcoal medications that relieve the discomfort of gas bubbles. Many safe home remedies are in vogue in all parts of the country.

The stereophonic sounds of borborygmus is usually of social rather than medical significance. Yet, a sustained period of such annoyances should be thoroughly studied for the possibility of some important underlying cause.

Is heart disease hereditary? The question perhaps needs clarification before an answer can be given to relieve anxiety rather than magnify it.

There are some heart conditions which are present at birth. These are congenital defects produced by some malformation during the pregnancy.

Heart disease is rarely a familial tendency.

Too often children of parents who have had heart attacks, spend their lives in unnecessary fear that they, too, will inevitably have the same affliction.

The unhappy consequence of such fears is that people live their lives expecting a disease that probably will never occur.

All people must necessarily have parents and family who have had some kind of major illness during their lifetime. The most disastrous aftermath of such illnesses can be the imprint of fear it leaves on the sensitive minds of younger members of the family.

Heart disease is rarely ever hereditary.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — The economy is displaying some variations from its usual August pattern this year. It's striding ahead in some lines that traditionally take a siesta. And even in some of those fields where the hot weather is bringing a slowdown, there are marked differences this summer.

The differences are what the soothsayers are eyeing as they seek to guess what lies ahead for this fall and also for the bigger question mark of early 1966.

Employment this summer has increased beyond seasonal expectations. A record 75 million Americans have work. That hardly adds up to the summer slowdown that a few months ago was taken for granted in some quarters. The employment jump could forecast an even better autumn than once seemed likely.

Businessmen continue to pile up inventories. They have already added $4.4 billion to their stocks so far this year, compared with a $4-billion increase for all of 1964. Some of this buildup is because business looks so good and because turnover is so fast that big stocks are needed. But some of the inventory pileup could spell trouble later. And that is being closely watched and assessed.

Steel output has risen to its highest level in five weeks. More striking is the contrast with August a year ago. Production is running 15 per cent higher now. Of course, there's a reason that is far from an unmixed good. In the steel industry this August is unusual because steel users are taking no chances of being caught short if there's a strike after Sept. 1. And if there isn't, the steel mills may have a letdown this fall.

Auto production is slowing down now. The changeover in models is halting production lines later this year than usual.

So the figures this August won't mean much when compared with those of last.

August is proving a big month in other industries. New orders are beginning to pour in for some of the makers of military hard goods. And the August buildup in the war in Viet Nam apparently spells increased activity in many lines, both durable and nondurable, in the months ahead.

Businessmen also are boosting their plans for future spending for new plants and equipment. The Viet Nam War expansion seems to have changed few plans, and may be inciting new ones.

August may see the Congress voting larger appropriations for the military. This could help assure economic growth in the months ahead, although it also might mean the dimming of hopes for another federal tax cut next year.

"A School of Nonchalance" he said again. "Some place where guys like me can learn to be casual about things that are hard for us — but that other people do easily."

I commented that Robert Benchley or some other major league wit once said the same thing. Seems no matter how hard he tried, the humorist never could learn to say "Hi." The way others managed to toss it off.

"Same with me," said my friend. "I don't smoke, but when I'm out with the guys, I light up to be with the group. But somehow it always comes off as if I were holding a poisoned dart."

"Doesn't seem much of a problem," I muttered — becoming self-conscious for the first time about the way I held my cigarette.

"But it is," he said, warming to the subject. "Take escalators. I go into a store. Stout old ladies are carrying end tables on escalators. They just saunter aboard To Me they look like the

"We take a trip to Mexico or wherever. The guidebooks, the seasoned travelers — everybody — tell you that you are expected to haggle in the market. That the natives are disappointed if you don't. But I just can't do it."

"At a restaurant, the waitress never glares at other people when they complain their steak is medium, rather than rare. But I ask for a fork and she glares at me because I'm not the debonair type."

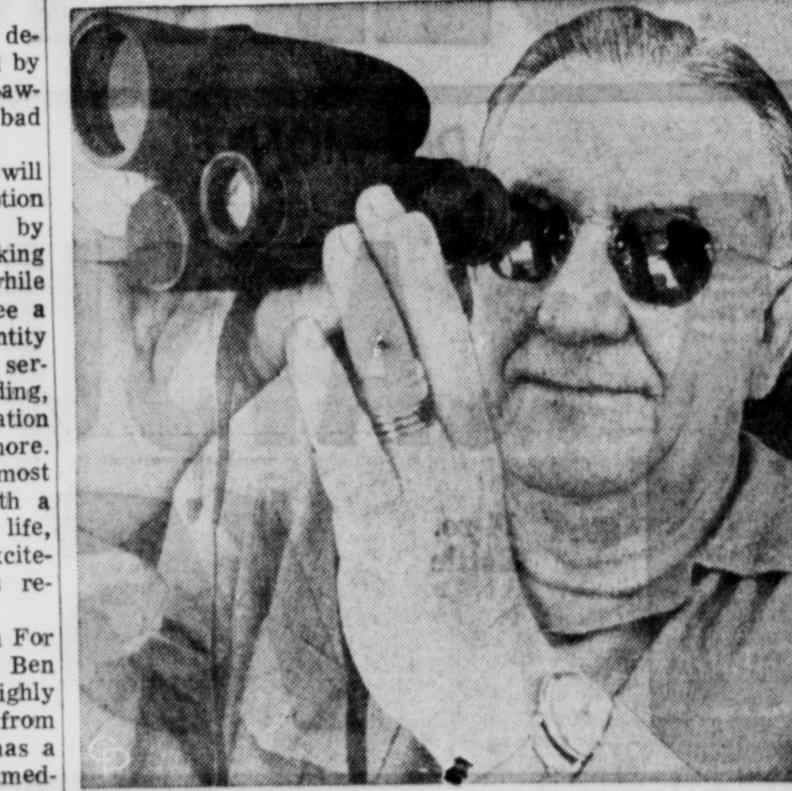

The hors d'oeuvres on the plate in front of us were getting low.

"Other people can take the last anchovy off without feeling embarrassed," he said. "But it's a chore for me."

And with an acute look of embarrassment he took the last one — just as I was reaching for it, nonchalantly.

New Rehabilitation Tool

An obstacle an ex-convict has to overcome is the personal stigma he carries with him the rest of his life. Assuming he wants to lead a straight and honorable existence, always somewhere before him he can expect to be confronted by the crime he committed and the penalty he paid for it.

Many are unable to overcome the constant reminder and become habitual undesirables. Overcoming the repetitive instinct which characterizes many of those convicted of crimes against society has become a primary goal of preventive techniques.

One particularly imaginative attack on the problem has been the halfway house concept of permitting the convict to adjust himself gradually to a normal life in a normal neighborhood. There are several models of this approach, but the general theme is to permit the convicted man or woman to serve part of the sentence working with psychiatrists, sociologists and former convicts leading exemplary lives, in attempts to correct underlying neuroses and otherwise remove the causes of criminal behavior.

Another approach, newer and still relatively untried, is "cosmetic surgery." This is surgery which removes disfigurements or other blemishes in appearance which can create an antagonistic attitude in a sensitive personality.

Many persons who go through life with misshapen ears, bulbous noses are unable to fully develop their personalities. Not even those most enthusiastic about cosmetic surgery blame such abnormalities for a life of crime, but they may cause a sensitive person to withdraw into a life devoid of friendship or any real enjoyment. Such despair often leads to deviant behavior to attract attention.

Dr. John Simons, senior resident in plastic surgery at the University of Kansas Medical Center, has been reshaping convict faces at the rate of about two a week. He has more volunteers for his operations than he can accommodate, an indication that the technique is an important step toward a new life.

New hope for the future is one of the most important attitudes any convict needs to acquire before he is released from confinement. What better way to start a new life than with a new face, a face unmarked by either nature or the past?

Hopeful City

By John Chamberlain

MILWAUKEE, WIS. — Dynamic young Tom Van Sickle, head of the Young Republican National Federation, flew his new twin Cessna plane, his first solo flight, here from his home state of Kansas the other day to help nerve up the local Republicans. He made a speech built around a terrifying statistic: by 1968, he said, one-half of the total U. S. population will be under twenty-five years of age. The twenty-five-and-under group will have no memories of anything before the Korean War, and the only political reality they know will be that of the Great Society and the Welfare State.

What hope, then, has any political party which tries to ground itself on the idea that man is a self-starter, charged with the responsibility of making the most of himself by use of his own powers? It so happens that Tom Van Sickle had brought his question to what in my book must be rated the most hopeful city in the whole United States. For Milwaukee, months before anybody had begun talking about federal anti-poverty programs, had addressed itself firmly to the idea of wiping out discrimination in hiring. Moreover, it had done this on a purely voluntary basis that imposes no draining taxes and no looming danger of currency inflation on anybody.

The instigators of what subsequently became the Milwaukee Voluntary Equal Employment Opportunity Council were Bob Stevenson, boss of the heavy equipment company of Allis-Chalmers, and Ted Smith, head of A. O. Smith, who is famous for its auto frames. Back in 1963 Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Smith called the third-three largest employers in the Milwaukee area together for a bit of soul-searching. The result was a pledge from all concerned to do everything within their power to give a fair employment shake to Milwaukee's minority groups. This was of particular interest to Milwaukee's ninety thousand Negroes, who constitute about nine per cent of the greater Milwaukee region.

What is particularly hopeful about the Voluntary Equal Employment Opportunity Council is that it never once slackened its pace after Lyndon Johnson put Sargent Shriver and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. to the task of using tax money to the twin ends of eradicating poverty and discrimination. Having lived through WPA days, my own feeling is that federal money spent by and through a federal bureaucracy produces nothing very permanent.

The money gets slopped around; much of it goes into big social workers salaries and sterile office equipment, and people begin taking it as a windfall right, not as a spur to personal improvement and self-sufficiency. But the Milwaukee Voluntary Equal Employment organization spends nothing on self-aggrandizement. It is all business where business counts.

A.P. Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television series, spinning complete stories around the same characters week after week, must find a valid reason for the hero's constant motion and involvement in adventures.

Doctors and lawyers and detectives are easily motivated by their patients and clients. Lawyers have a steady flow of bad guys to catch.

Soon the television screen will break out in a rash of "question men," an epidemic started by "The Fugitive," who is seeking proof of his innocence while fleeing the law. We shall see a man seeking his own identity (amnesia, of course) in one series. Another will keep riding, riding to redeem his reputation of cowardice. There are more. But by all yardsticks, the most unusual will be a hero with a medical deadline on his life, trying to crowd as much excitement as possible into his remaining days.

The series is NBC's "Run For Your Life," and the star is Ben Gazzara, one of the few highly esteemed dramatic actors from the New York stage who has a warm attitude toward the medium — possibly helped by his ownership of a percentage of the show.

Just what is the matter with the hero?

"We don't say," replied Gazzara, with a firmness suggesting he has heard the question many times. "We don't want to upset all the hypochondriacs who watch television, but I assure you there is a disease in which the patient has only a certain length of time to live but feels well until just before the end."

But will not a fatally ill hero have a depressing psychological effect on the audience?

"Quite the contrary," replied Gazzara. "Who has not asked himself, 'What would I do if I had only two years to live?' There's great audience identification in that, and in a man who has no family to think about, is free of material responsibilities and can travel. Actually, I think the title should be 'Run Toward Life.'"

"Besides," added Gazzara slyly, "two years, at the rate of one show a week, takes a long time — like 14 years."

I commented that Robert Benchley or some other major league wit once said the same thing. Seems no matter how hard he tried, the humorist never could learn to say "Hi," the way others managed to toss it off.

Food Demands Exceed Supplies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The housewife who is paying a dime more for every dollar's worth of food than she did a year ago may be ready to swear whoever is responsible. But she may have trouble finding her target.

The Agriculture Department says different factors operated on different kinds of food staples, but the general explanation of a 10.1 per cent rise in prices is the usual one: Supplies were smaller than the demand.

Food fats and oils, for example, were in good supply in this country, but short elsewhere, so foreign customers came in and bid up prices here. On the other hand, pork supplies fell and prices rose because of purely domestic decisions: U.S. farmers became discouraged with low returns.

The department had a somewhat muted note of cheer. Prices should reach their peak this month or next and then ease somewhat but not all the way down to last year's levels.

Items whose prices increased the most by midyear included food fats and oils, meats, fresh vegetables and potatoes. Partly offsetting these advances were lower prices for oranges, sugar and coffee. Pork prices increased 13 per cent, fresh fruits 22 per cent, fresh vegetables 7 per cent, and beef 10 per cent.

It is normal for retail prices to go up a little by midyear. That is a time when supplies are at the lowest level because it is at the end of the previous year's production and just ahead of the new harvests. But this year's price increases were above normal.

In the case of pork, slaughter fell off nearly 10 per cent.

In the case of beef, prices advanced largely because of the shrinkage in pork supplies and a consequent small reduction in total meat supplies.

The department expects some easing off of beef and pork prices later in the year. It may be another year before total meat supplies reach 1964 levels. That's because it takes time for an improvement in meat animal prices to be reflected in larger supplies.

Prices of fresh vegetables shot up during the first half of the year because of reduced production and supplies. Factors included adverse weather during the late winter and spring in some producing areas and a reduction in acreages of some vegetables because of farmers' fears they would not be able to get enough labor.

But in recent weeks, vegetable production has increased. Supplies are now larger than a year earlier and prices have turned downward. High prices for potatoes reflected largely the fact that last year's fall crop was short. Growers who had received lower prices had planted fewer acres.

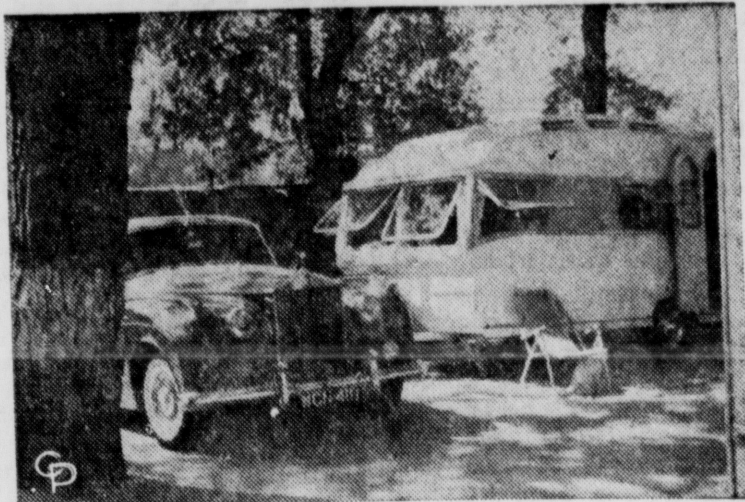

Reduced production of some early fruits, also, was reflected in higher retail prices.

Food Demands Exceed Supplies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The housewife who is paying a dime more for every dollar's worth of food than she did a year ago may be ready to swear whoever is responsible. But she may have trouble finding her target.

The Agriculture Department says different factors operated on different kinds of food staples, but the general explanation of a 10.1 per cent rise in prices is the usual one: Supplies were smaller than the demand.

Food fats and oils, for example, were in good supply in this country, but short elsewhere, so foreign customers came in and bid up prices here. On the other hand, pork supplies fell and prices rose because of purely domestic decisions: U.S. farmers became discouraged with low returns.

The department had a somewhat muted note of cheer. Prices should reach their peak this month or next and then ease somewhat but not all the way down to last year's levels.

Items whose prices increased the most by midyear included food fats and oils, meats, fresh vegetables and potatoes. Partly offsetting these advances were lower prices for oranges, sugar and coffee. Pork prices increased 13 per cent, fresh fruits 22 per cent, fresh vegetables 7 per cent, and beef 10 per cent.

It is normal for retail prices to go up a little by midyear. That is a time when supplies are at the lowest level because it is at the end of the previous year's production and just ahead of the new harvests. But this year's price increases were above normal.

In the case of pork, slaughter fell off nearly 10 per cent.

Safeguards for Picnickers

By ELEANOR ROSS

Picnics are part of summer fun, enjoyed by young and old — even by Mother who has to prepare the provender.

Nobody likes to so much as think about such a grim consequence as food poisoning when a picnic is under way.

Nevertheless, the unhappy statistics prove that we do have to do more than think about such things in order to avoid them.

The right time is: before the picnic menu is selected, before the food is prepared, before the sandwiches and salads are packed.

There are two reliable rules for making the outing a complete success.

First, select picnic foods that are safe to transport in hot weather.

Second, make sure that every single utensil used in preparing and transporting food is scrubbed; that every pair of helping hands is clean, and also that every pair of sandwich-holding hands is clean.

Avoid entirely the foods that are not likely to keep well without refrigeration — such as custards, creams, and salad dressings, also cakes and pastries with cream or custard layers or fillings.

The more foods you can prepare right on the picnic spot, the better. Use fresh vegetables and fruits, lean meats, beverages that can be kept capped or in cans until needed, breads with wrappings that can be sealed against dust or dirt.

Modern picnic gear is designed to carry hot or cold foods safely, and suitable equipment includes insulated jugs, titles, and a hot-and-cold hamper large enough to hold food and beverages for all. Unless you possess such scientifically designed containers, don't trust easily spoiled foods out in the open on a hot day.

It's also a good idea to pack plenty of paper towels; they can be used in dozens of ways.

And it's not a bad suggestion to take a big jar of soapuds solution along to the picnic area. This is especially true if it's going to be a long day and there will be more than one meal during the outing.

The soapuds solution will come in mighty handy for clean-up chores. It can be heated easily and used to wash the utensils — the knife and fork for cutting the meat, the coffee pot as it is made ready for second servings, etc.

The soapuds will come in handy, too, when everybody wants to wash up before eating. And if there are minor cuts and bruises suffered during a pick-up baseball game, shining up trees or stumbling over rocks and things, the solution can be used for emergency "washing of the wounds."

Our final note. See to it that everything is cleared away and the picnic site left as clean as possible. You might even take little pride in making sure the place is cleaner when you leave than it was when you arrived.

Next year the reunion will be held at Gold Cliff Park the first Sunday in August.

Chicken Supper Set

By FOE Auxiliary

Final plans were made for a fried chicken supper Aug. 13 when members of the FOR Auxiliary met Thursday.

Cleo Caudill, madam president, conducted the business session. Two candidates for Fayette Auxiliary No. 423, Washington C. H., were initiated by the group.

Women's Fellowship Schedules Picnic

The Church of the Brethren Women's Fellowship will meet 6 p. m. Thursday in shelterhouse No. 1 at Ted Lewis Park for a picnic.

When you want to add a "pinch" of spice to a dish, use just enough to cover the point of a small kitchen knife.

First EUB Church Class Holds Party

The Loyal Daughters Class of First EUB Church met Tuesday for a "Backwards Party". Refreshments were served to 14 members by Mrs. Betty Morrison, Mrs. Russell Jones, Mrs. Nolan Sims Sr. and Mrs. Clara Lathouse.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Russell Merrin and Miss Maggie Mavis.

Miss Gladys Noggle, president, was in charge of the business meeting. Plans for the Christmas party were discussed and the following committees appointed: general arrangements — Mrs. Elliott Mason, Mrs. Stanley Goodman and Mrs. Clarence Merz; needy family — Mrs. Clarence Willoughby and Mrs. Betty Morrison, favors and decorations — Mrs. Merrin and Miss Jessie Cummings.

The September meeting will be a carry-in supper with members of The Shining Light Class as guests. Reports were received concerning the organ fund, nursery project, and drapes for the class room.

Mrs. Morrison conducted devotions using the Twenty-Third Psalm and read the poem, "The Psalm of Life". Hymns were sung and The Lord's Prayer was repeated by the class. Mrs. Charles Ater read the poem "My Garden".

Miss Noggle gave the closing prayer in which members who are ill were remembered.

Dear Abby: It Won't Be Easy, Lady!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I live alone and like it. I am a widow, 51, but am told I look much younger. My children are married and live elsewhere. I have an adequate income, my own car and travel occasionally. I am not "lonely", and live alone by choice.

However, there are times when I wish to go places where ladies cannot go unescorted. This town is too small for an escort service. And the few local bachelors and widowers in my age group have let me know after a few dates that they have matrimony in mind. I do not wish to remarry. Where can I find a reliable escort when I need one?

I would gladly pay a fee plus all the expenses, but I want it understood that everything would be on a strictly professional basis. Sign this, "ESCORT WANTED".

DEAR ABBY: Unless you can afford to "import" a professional escort from the nearest city that has such a service, you will have to break down and ask one of the local matrimonial-minded men to escort you. Tell him you need an escort and nothing more. And don't offer to pay all the expenses and a fee besides, or you'll never get rid of him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband just came home from the barber shop and I almost broke into tears when I saw him. He went to a shop he always goes to, but his regular barber was busy, so he let one of the other barbers take him. All my husband asked for was a haircut, but this barber asked my husband if he minded if he "trimmed" his eyebrows a little bit. My husband said, "Go on." Well, he sure trimmed them! He cut nearly all his eyebrows off! There are only a few hairs left over each eye. I am just sick over this. I loved my husband's bushy eyebrows. He doesn't even look like the same man any more. Can anything be done while they are growing back? And what will he do in case they don't grow back.

IN TEARS
DEAR IN: In all probability his eyebrows will grow in just as luxurious as before. But in case they don't, your husband has a good case for a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: As an aging grandmother, and mother of three married children, I would like to commend your answer to the "Heartbroken" mother who was sad because her son-in-law had promised her daughter they could baptize their children in her religion, and then went back on his promise. You said, "Skip it. It's THEIR problem." I know how right you were because, I too, had a daughter whose husband took her away from her own religion. However, they are getting along fine and if religion is a problem to them, it's THEIR problem. When I think of how few years I have left to enjoy my children and grandchildren, I overlook the problems that might estrange them from me. There have been times when I could have cheerfully choked my son-in-law, but that wouldn't bring my daughter back to the church she was reared in, so I mind my own business and pretend I don't see what's going on. I hope "Heartbroken" takes your advice and does the same.

GRANDMOTHER

Layette Shower Given for Mrs. Spires

Mrs. Tracy Spires was honored with a layette shower given by Mrs. Larry Spires and Mrs. Fred Davis at the Davis residence, 380 Sunnyview Drive.

Several games were played and prizes won by Miss Lesa Davis, Miss Lidia Spires, Mrs. Kenny Weaver, Mrs. Allan Strawser, Miss Nancy Spires and Miss Brenda Lemaster. Mrs. Bill Walker won the door prize.

A dessert course was served. Other guests present were: Mrs. Lefa Essick, Mrs. Dave Greeno, Miss Jackie Lovenshimer, Mrs. Mary Davis, Mrs. Sam Resser and Master Mickey Jo Davis.

Gifts were sent by Mrs. Frank Woodward, Mrs. Jack Mills and daughter, Marcia, Miss Sue Rihl, Mrs. Sherman Dresbach, eMrs. Leonard Sines and Mrs. Mary Beavers.

Wife Preservers

A small piece of foam rubber glued to the base of the gas pedal prevents heel scuffs while driving.

As soon as those hard-boiled eggs have finished cooking, cover them with cold water and the chances are there will be no dark yolks.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Lanman and daughters Karen, Susan and Bobbie of Williamsport returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Strawser and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Holbrook and family and Mr. and Mrs. William Shook of Coshocton. They also toured West Virginia and Kentucky.

Miss Karen Sampson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sampson, 838 Pershing Drive, has returned home after spending eight weeks with her aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Sakakini of New York City, N.Y. She and her aunt traveled by plane to Fort Wayne, Ind., where she visited a week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ovid Harrod.

Many Steel Items Important in Home

By ELEANOR ROSS

Steel, the wonder metal, has inconspicuously helped build our houses for a century, and, today, as it heads into its second century, it is taking on a more conspicuous and valued role in home-building, indoors and out.

Bigger and better appliances, colorful furniture, elegant dinnerware, healthful innerspring mattresses, and many more items are all part of the interior.

But steel is busy outdoors, helping to solve design problems relating to the use of land, foundations, beams, studs, joists and plumbing fixtures.

Thanks to the ingenuity first used by bridge-builders, new houses are being built on steeply sloped lots that were once called "impossible" — but are desirable because of their lower price and the views they generally afford.

With steel framing, these houses can cantilever out over a slope, neatly solving a problem that conventional construction cannot economically handle. It's like a house floating on air, but with all the security that steel affords.

Once upon a time, home building was seasonal. But now there is an all-weather light-weight steel foundation system requiring very little excavation, thereby making it possible for builders to continue construction activities during the long winter months.

Then there are the steel components that open up home styling.

Also here is the new steel stud. Shaped like a regular 2x4 or 2x6, it can be cut and nailed like wood. But unlike wood, it never warps, sags, rots or swells, because it is made of galvanized steel sheet.

There's a new lightweight open web joist made of a new high strength low alloy steel that speeds construction, frees home styling and reduces the number of building components required.

All this interests women because these items help to bring down homebuilding costs while making for a superior product.

Indoors, porcelain-on-steel is being applied to bathroom fixtures as well as major appliances, by a new method that improves the product and cuts manufacturing costs.

Still another development in porcelain enameling is a new type of steel with a very low carbon content that makes perfect one-coat enameling possible.

This offers significant savings, yet gives the same hard, glasslike, colorful, easy-to-clean finish to steel tubs, sinks and other cabinets.

Many Steel Items Important in Home

By ELEANOR ROSS

Steel, the wonder metal, has inconspicuously helped build our houses for a century, and, today, as it heads into its second century, it is taking on a more conspicuous and valued role in home-building, indoors and out.

Bigger and better appliances, colorful furniture, elegant dinnerware, healthful innerspring mattresses, and many more items are all part of the interior.

But steel is busy outdoors, helping to solve design problems relating to the use of land, foundations, beams, studs, joists and plumbing fixtures.

Thanks to the ingenuity first used by bridge-builders, new houses are being built on steeply sloped lots that were once called "impossible" — but are desirable because of their lower price and the views they generally afford.

With steel framing, these houses can cantilever out over a slope, neatly solving a problem that conventional construction cannot economically handle. It's like a house floating on air, but with all the security that steel affords.

Once upon a time, home building was seasonal. But now there is an all-weather light-weight steel foundation system requiring very little excavation, thereby making it possible for builders to continue construction activities during the long winter months.

Then there are the steel components that open up home styling.

Also here is the new steel stud. Shaped like a regular 2x4 or 2x6, it can be cut and nailed like wood. But unlike wood, it never warps, sags, rots or swells, because it is made of galvanized steel sheet.

There's a new lightweight open web joist made of a new high strength low alloy steel that speeds construction, frees home styling and reduces the number of building components required.

All this interests women because these items help to bring down homebuilding costs while making for a superior product.

Sateguards for Picnickers

By ELEANOR ROSS

Picnics are part of summer fun, enjoyed by young and old — even by Mother who has to prepare the provender.

Nobody likes to so much as think about such a grim consequence as food poisoning when a picnic is under way.

Nevertheless, the unhappy statistics prove that we do have to do more than think about such things in order to avoid them.

The right time is: before the picnic menu is selected, before the food is prepared, before the sandwiches and salads are packed.

There are two reliable rules for making the outing a complete success.

39th Annual Lanman Family Reunion Held

The 39th annual Lanman Reunion was held recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Newlon, and family, Route 3. There were 64 present and a picnic lunch was served at noon.

A gift was presented to Mrs. Frances Chalfin, 95, the oldest member present, and Leslie John Schwendeman, the youngest. Games and contests were conducted.

The same officers were named for the coming year during the short business meeting.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Newlon and family, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bell and Nelson Jr., John Lanman, John Bell and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lanman and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Lanman, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Newlon and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Chalfin, Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Phil Lanman and family, Grove City; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dietz and family, Mrs. Frances Chalfin and Mrs. Marie Dietz, Westerville; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lanman and daughters, Williamsport; Miss Carmie Spangler, Harrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Faust and grandchildren, Worthington; Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Waites and family, all of Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Galen Andrews and family, Columbus; Dr. and Mrs. Harold Schwendeman and family, Lancaster.

Next year the reunion will be held at Gold Cliff Park the first Sunday in August.

Calendar

THURSDAY
CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN Women's Fellowship, 6 p. m. in shelterhouse No. 1 at Ted Lewis Park.
LADIES SOCIETY OF SCIOTO Chapel, noon in the parish house.

MONDAY
DARBYVILLE WSCS 8 P. M. in the home of Mrs. Maxine Brigner, Route 1, Williamsport.

First, select picnic foods that are safe to transport in hot weather.

Second, make sure that every single utensil used in preparing and transporting food is scrubbed; that every pair of helping hands is clean, and also that every pair of sandwich-holding hands is clean.

Avoid entirely the foods that are not likely to keep well without refrigeration — such as custards, creams, and salad dressings, also cakes and pastries with cream or custard layers or fillings.

The more foods you can prepare right on the picnic spot, the better. Use fresh vegetables and fruits, lean meats, beverages that can be kept capped or in cans until needed, breads with wrappings that can be sealed against dust or dirt.

Modern picnic gear is designed to carry hot or cold foods safely, and suitable equipment includes insulated jugs, titles, and a hot-and-cold hamper large enough to hold food and beverages for all. Unless you possess such scientifically designed containers, don't trust easily-spoiled foods in the open on a hot day.

It's also a good idea to pack plenty of paper towels; they can be used in dozens of ways.

And it's not a bad suggestion to take a big jar of soapuds solution along to the picnic area. This is especially true if it's going to be a long day and there will be more than one meal during the outing.

The suds solution will come in mighty handy for clean-up chores. It can be heated easily and used to wash the utensils — the knife and fork for cutting the meat, the coffee pot as it is made ready for second servings, etc.

The soapuds will come in handy, too, when everybody wants to wash up before eating. And if there are minor cuts and bruises suffered during a pickup-baseball game, shinnying up trees or stumbling over rocks and things, the solution can be used for emergency "washing of the wounds."

Our final note. See to it that everything is cleared away and the picnic site left as clean as possible. You might even take little pride in making sure the place is cleaner when you leave than it was when you arrived.

Chicken Supper Set By FOE Auxiliary

Final plans were made for a fried chicken supper Aug. 13 when members of the FOE Auxiliary met Thursday.

Cleo Caudill, madam president, conducted the business session. Two candidates for Fayette Auxiliary No. 423, Washington C. H., were initiated by the group.

Meeting Postponed
The Five Points WCTU meeting has been postponed until Aug. 18.

First EUB Church Class Holds Party

The Loyal Daughters Class of First EUB Church met Tuesday for a "Backwards Party". Refreshments were served to 14 members by Mrs. Betty Morrison, Mrs. Russell Jones, Mrs. Nolan Sims Sr. and Mrs. Clara Lathouse.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Russell Merrin and Miss Maggie Mavis.

Miss Gladys Noggle, president, was in charge of the business meeting. Plans for the Christmas party were discussed and the following committees appointed: general arrangements — Mrs. Elliott Mason, Mrs. Stanley Goodman and Mrs. Clarence Merz; needy family — Mrs. Clarence Willoughby and Mrs. Betty Morrison, favors and decorations — Mrs. Merrin and Miss Jessie Cummings.

The September meeting will be a carry-in supper with members of The Shining Light Class as guests. Reports were received concerning the organ fund, nursery project, and drapes for the class room.

Mrs. Morrison conducted devotions using the Twenty-Third Psalm and read the poem, "The Psalm of Life". Hymns were sung and The Lord's Prayer was repeated by the class. Mrs. Charles Ater read the poem "My Garden".

Miss Noggle gave the closing prayer in which members who are ill were remembered.

Mrs. Drum Honored on 81st Birthday

Mrs. Orton Drum was honored on her 81st birthday with a family picnic held in the Orwin Drum residence, East Ringgold.

The honored guest received many gifts and William and Donna Drum, children of the hosts provided organ and piano music for entertainment.

Those attending included her children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren. Two sons were unable to attend.

Others present were, Mr. and Mrs. Orton Drum of East Ringgold, Mrs. David Green, Debbie Dianne and Doug, Circleville;

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hunter and children, Cindy, Steven and Scott, all of the Lancaster area; Mr. and Mrs. David Drum and Donald, Amanda; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Link, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. William Drum and son David Tucson, Ariz.

Women's Fellowship Schedules Picnic

The Church of the Brethren Women's Fellowship will meet 6 p. m. Thursday in shelterhouse No. 1 at Ted Lewis Park for a picnic.

When you want to add a "pinch" of spice to a dish, use just enough to cover the point of a small kitchen knife.

Dear Abby: It Won't Be Easy, Lady!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I live alone and like it. I am a widow, 51, but am told I look much younger. My children are married and live elsewhere. I have an adequate income, my own car and travel occasionally. I am not "lonely", and live alone by choice.

However, there are times when I wish to go places where ladies cannot go unescorted. This town is too small for an escort service. And the few local bachelors and widowers in my age group have let me know after a few dates that they have matrimony in mind. I do not wish to remarry. Where can I find a reliable escort when I need one? I would gladly pay a fee plus all the expenses, but I want it understood that everything would be on a strictly professional basis. Sign this, "ESCORT WANTED"

DEAR ABBY: Unless you can afford to "import" a professional escort from the nearest city that has such a service, you will have to break down and ask one of the local matrimonial-minded men to escort you. Tell him you need an escort and nothing more. And don't offer to pay all the expenses and a fee besides, or you'll never get rid of him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband just came home from the barber shop and I almost broke into tears when I saw him. He went to a shop he always goes to, but his regular barber was busy, so he let one of the other barbers take him. All my husband asked for was a haircut, but this barber asked my husband if he minded if he "trimmed" his eyebrows a little bit. My husband said, "Go on." Well, he sure trimmed them! He cut nearly all his eyebrows off! There are only a few hairs left over each eye. I am just sick over this. I loved my husband's bushy eyebrows. He doesn't even look like the same man any more. Can anything be done while they are growing back? And what will he do in case they don't grow back.

DEAR IN: In all probability his eyebrows will grow in just

Here's Panorama Of Week's News

Editor's Note—The case of the $3 bill in Virginia. The nagging wife in South Carolina. "Homestretch Harry" in Pennsylvania. Three white crosses in Missouri. There make up glimpses from the U.S. scene this week.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The South Carolina Supreme Court has ruled that nagging is not physical cruelty and, therefore, not grounds for divorce. The ruling reversed a divorce decree granted in a Greenville County court.

A Greenville County man claimed in his suit that his wife's "unjustified jealousy and nagging grew so unreasonable that he was deprived of rest and sleep, and that such conduct amounted to physical cruelty within the meaning of our divorce statute."

In reversing the divorce decree, the high court said:

The record in the case "shows nothing more than incompatibility between the parties characterized by the nagging of the wife and such conduct does not constitute physical cruelty."

Incompatibility is not grounds for divorce in South Carolina.

Court records showed the couple married in 1924, separated in 1949 and the suit for divorce was filed in 1964.

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP) — The cost of living index is up and the value of the dollar has declined. Just how this affects Mrs. D.O. Taylor's $3 bill is problematical.

The Suffolk housewife actually owns a $3 bill. She found it while cleaning out an old dresser in her home the other day.

It was issued in October 1961 by the Andover Bank of Massachusetts.

Whatever it's worth, Mrs. Taylor says it already has aroused $100 worth of curiosity.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "In memory of Charlie, Jennie and Eddie Squirrel," read the sign which appeared with three small, white crosses on Kenneth Agnew's lawn in suburban Prairie Village, Kan.

The crosses and sign apparently were placed there to protest the shooting of three squirrels which frequented the neighborhood.

Residents of the area had made pets of the squirrels.

Agnew, who recently moved into the neighborhood, complained the squirrels kept dropping walnuts on his car, denting the trunk lid and leaving walnut stains which could not be washed off. He asked the Prairie Village Police Department to do something about it.

Two officers arrived and brought the squirrels down with a .410 shotgun.

The neighbors protested. "He didn't even ask whether we knew the squirrels," said one woman.

That night the three tiny crosses appeared.

"This reminds me of the Klux Klan—with the white crosses at night and all," Agnew said. He threatened to press charges if he caught anyone putting signs in his yard.

As a result of the controversy, Chief R.J. Hundley announced his department's long-standing policy will be changed and policemen no longer will shoot squirrels when residents ask for help.

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — You might say Louis Dichak came up with a winner of worts after picking losers all evening at nearby Meadows Race Track.

"I left the track after a bad night of betting. . . opened the front door of my car and there the baby was, wrapped in a blanket," said the 46-year-old trucker from Canonsburg.

Dichak turned the little boy over to the track's security police who promptly dubbed him "Homestretch Harry."

The abandoned baby was taken to a Washington hospital, which reported it was in fine shape.

CREEDE, Colo. (AP) — Creede, onetime gold mine bonanza town high up in southwestern Colorado's rugged San Juan Mountains is about to be sold—at least a big chunk of it.

The sale, by the Colorado Board of Land Commissioners, is to clear up a land ownership muddle that has existed for at least 30 years—ever since the courthouse went up in flames, and the land records burned with it.

Creede isn't what it was 70 years ago when it was a boom town of 15,000; when Bob Ford, slayer of Jesse James, was shot to death there, and confidence man Soapy Smith made it his base of operations.

Then it was a roaring city of tough, hardrock miners, gamblers, girls and gay saloons.

Today, the town has about 350 permanent residents. It attracts visitors chiefly interested in fishing or skiing.

Commissioner Wesley Woodward of the Land Board says that for years he has been trying to unscramble the riddle of who owns what land in Creede, particularly in the southern part of the community.

Anyway, in mid-August the state will sell quitclaim deeds to 219 lots and a 10-acre hill.

But if you're thinking of buying an old gold mine and heading for the Rockies with pickax and mule, don't. The state reserves mineral rights at these sales.

Corn goes into paints and pipe bowls, soaps, salad oil, paper, matches, margarine, hair-waving preparations, vinegar, cheese, chewing gum, bay rum, and face powder.

Five Points

There were 47 present at the Five Points Methodist Sunday School. There were 54 at Hebrew Methodist Sunday School.

Several from this community attended the 46th annual reunion of the Long family at Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsberry's near Johnstown last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlin McCafferty of Columbus were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clark McCafferty.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Raso of Middletown were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter.

Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Ray Anderson and children, Mike, Tammy, Paul and Billy of Westover Air Force Base, Mass., have returned to the base after spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Anderson. They also attended the Long Reunion Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dick and sons Artie, Mack, J. B. and Eric returned last Wednesday from a week's vacation and tour in eight states. They visited Staff Sergeant and Mrs. LeRoy Rittel and family of Dennison, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lovell of Jacksonville, Ark.

Mrs. Ernest L. Sheets, Mr. and Mrs. Turney Sheets and Terry and Mr. and Mrs. Max Sheets and Mickey of Westerville attended the Grabbill Reunion Sunday at Gold Cliff Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Whaley of Circleville were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hanawalt and son, Brent.

Mrs. Raymond Hanawalt and Mrs. Roy Whaley of Circleville were Wednesday afternoon guests of Mrs. Don Ussawir and daughter, Diana and son, Chris, of Columbus.

Mrs. Francis Furniss returned home from Grant Hospital Monday morning.

Debbie Dick of Circleville is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Dick.

Mrs. Willa Jean Newland of near Circleville visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dennis.

The 46th annual reunion of the James M. Long family was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsberry of near Johnstown. There were 81 present.

After the picnic dinner the group was called to order by the president, Margaret Roberts for a short business meeting. Officers elected for the coming year were: Robert Morgan, president; Jean King, secretary; Johnny Brigner, treasurer; Laura Long, historian and corresponding secretary.

Relatives decided to meet again next year with Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsberry on the second Sunday of August.

The oldest present was Mrs. Nellie Long, 74, of Prospect. The youngest was James Goldsberry, 2-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Goldsberry. The afternoon was spent in fishing, visiting and playing games.

Johnson OKs $280 Million Health Research Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed a $280 million health research measure and plans to name a top-level task force to set the nation's goals.

Johnson said his panel will set national goals in education, in health and in the quest for happiness for all the world's children.

Composed of experts in and out of government under presidential leadership, he said, the task force will "tell America where we are, where we are going and how we are going to get there."

Johnson announced his plan in a ceremony at the National Institutes of Health, and at the same time announced the resignation of U.S. Surgeon General Luther Terry. Johnson said Terry will become vice president of the University of Pennsylvania after Sept. 30.

A crowd of perhaps 1,000 people stood under murky skies to hear Johnson and watch him sign the measure with dozens of souvenir pens.

A light sprinkle began falling as Johnson declared:

"As the leader of this country, I plan to set some goals. . . We do this because. . . we must advance daily or we will fail eternally."

Johnson said he will create the task force, choosing great leaders of the nation, within the next few days.

He also intended to stop in the heart surgery section.

The President was felled by a heart attack in 1955, and White House press secretary Bill D.

Moyers said last Friday:

"Some of their research, he believes, helped save his own life after his heart attack."

The construction legislation extends for three years a program begun in 1956, and in which $320 million already has been distributed to 399 institutions via 1,263 construction grants.

The grants go to universities, hospitals, medical schools and nonprofit groups where they are matched on a 50-50 basis.

The 1965 measure also grants authority to the Public Health Service, under which the NIH operates, to enter into research contracts with private agencies, and creates three additional assistant secretaries in the department of health, education and welfare.

In 1937, congress authorized the first of the present institutes for the study of cancer.

Today, the NIH encompasses seven research institutes on its 305-acre tract in suburban Bethesda, Md.

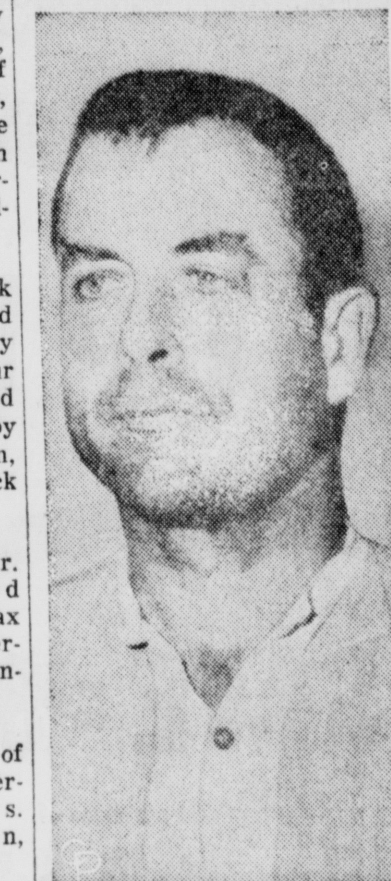

A 10-story hospital serves as the clinical center where doctors can work with patients who have a disease being studied.

The patients must be volunteers who are referred by private physicians.

Flashlight Is Used To Aid Stork's Arrival

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Officials at Mary Fletcher Hospital say a baby had to be delivered by flashlight last week when a thunderstorm knocked out regular and emergency power at the hospital.

Mrs. Stanley Easter of Colchester delivered a 9-pound, 8-ounce boy. Both were reported doing fine.

Army Will Fix Taft Gravesite

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army plans improvements at the grave of President William Howard Taft in Arlington National Cemetery.

Rep. Jackson E. Betts, R-Ohio, said Tuesday his recent house speech complaining of neglect of the grave had brought assurances from army officials that his remarks had "generated both interest and action."

He said the planned improvements include renovation of the turf surrounding the grave when weather permits, a crushed gravel walkway to the grave lot and signs and maps at the cemetery bearing directions to the site.

On his birthday in 1785, George Washington transplanted several lilac bushes and young dogwood, sassafras and redbud trees.

In the evening ice cream and cake was served.

Here's Panorama Of Week's News

Editor's Note—The case of the $3 bill in Virginia. The nagging wife in South Carolina. "Homestretch Harry" in Pennsylvania. Three white crosses in Missouri. There make up glimpses from the U.S. scene this week.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The South Carolina Supreme Court has ruled that nagging is not physical cruelty and, therefore, not grounds for divorce. The ruling reversed a divorce decree granted in a Greenville County court.

A Greenville County man claimed in his suit that his wife's "unjustified jealousy and nagging grew so unreasonable that he was deprived of rest and sleep, and that such conduct amounted to physical cruelty within the meaning of our divorce statute."

In reversing the divorce decree, the high court said:

The record in the case "shows nothing more than incompatibility between the parties characterized by the nagging of the wife and such conduct does not constitute physical cruelty."

Incompatibility is not grounds for divorce in South Carolina.

Court records showed the couple married in 1924, separated in 1949 and the suit for divorce was filed in 1964.

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP) — The cost of living index is up and the value of the dollar has declined. Just how this affects Mrs. D.O. Taylor's $3 bill is problematical.

The Suffolk housewife actually owns a $3 bill. She found it while cleaning out an old dresser in her home the other day.

It was issued in October 1961 by the Andover Bank of Massachusetts.

Whatever it's worth, Mrs. Taylor says it already has aroused $100 worth of curiosity.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "In memory of Charlie, Jennie and Eddie Squirrel," read the sign which appeared with three small, white crosses on Kenneth Agnew's lawn in suburban Prairie Village, Kan.

The crosses and sign apparently were placed there to protest the shooting of three squirrels which frequented the neighborhood.

Residents of the area had made pets of the squirrels.

Agnew, who recently moved into the neighborhood, complained the squirrels kept dropping walnuts on his car, denting the trunk lid and leaving walnut stains which could not be washed off. He asked the Prairie Village Police Department to do something about it.

Two officers arrived and brought the squirrels down with a .410 shotgun.

The neighbors protested. "He didn't even ask whether we knew the squirrels," said one woman.

That night the three tiny crosses appeared.

"This reminds me of the Klu Klux Klan—with the white crosses at night and all," Agnew said. He threatened to press charges if he caught anyone putting signs in his yard.

As a result of the controversy, Chief R.J. Hundley announced his department's long-standing policy will be changed and policemen no longer will shoot squirrels when residents ask for help.

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — You might say Louis Dichak came up with a winner of worts after picking losers all evening at nearby Meadows Race Track.

"I left the track after a bad night of betting. . . opened the front door of my car and there the baby was, wrapped in a blanket," said the 46-year-old trucker from Canonsburg.

Dichak turned the little boy over to the track's security police who promptly dubbed him "Homestretch Harry."

The abandoned baby was taken to a Washington hospital, which reported it was in fine shape.

CREEDE, Colo. (AP) — Creede, onetime gold mine bonanza town high up in southwestern Colorado's rugged San Juan Mountains is about to be sold—at least a big chunk of it.

The sale, by the Colorado Board of Land Commissioners, is to clear up a land ownership muddle that has existed for at least 30 years—ever since the courthouse went up in flames, and the land records burned with it.

Creede isn't what it was 70 years ago when it was a boom town of 15,000; when Bob Ford, slayer of Jesse James, was shot to death there, and confidence man Soapy Smith made it his base of operations.

Then it was a roaring city of tough, hardrock miners, gamblers, girls and gay saloons.

Today, the town has about 350 permanent residents. It attracts visitors chiefly interested in fishing or skiing.

Commissioner Wesley Woodward of the Land Board says that for years he has been trying to unscramble the riddle of who owns what land in Creede, particularly in the southern part of the community.

Anyway, in mid-August the state will sell quitclaim deeds to 219 lots and a 10-acre hill.

But if you're thinking of buying an old gold mine and heading for the Rockies with pickax and mule, don't. The state reserves mineral rights at these sales.

Corn goes into paints and pipe bowls, soaps, salad oil, paper, matches, margarine, hair-waving preparations, vinegar, cheese, chewing gum, bay rum, and face powder.

Five Points

There were 47 present at the Five Points Methodist Sunday School. There were 54 at Hebron Methodist Sunday School.

Several from this community attended the 46th annual reunion of the Long family at Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsberry's near Johnstown last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlin McCafferty of Columbus were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clark McCafferty.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rasor of Middletown were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter.

Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Ray Anderson and children, Mike, Tammy, Paul and Billy of Westover Air Force Base, Mass., have returned to the base after spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Anderson. They also attended the Long Reunion Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dick and sons Artie, Mack, J. B. and Eric returned last Wednesday from a week's vacation and tour in eight states. They visited Staff Sergeant and Mrs. LeRoy Rittel and family of Dennison, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lovell of Jacksonville, Ark.

Mrs. Ernest L. Sheets, Mr. and Mrs. Turney Sheets and Terry and Mr. and Mrs. Max Sheets and Mickey of Westerville attended the Grabill Reunion Sunday at Gold Cliff Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Whaley of Circleville were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hanawalt and son, Brent.

Mrs. Raymond Hanawalt and Mrs. Roy Whaley of Circleville were Wednesday afternoon guests of Mrs. Don Ussawir and daughter, Diana and son, Chris, of Columbus.

Mrs. Francis Furniss returned home from Grant Hospital Monday morning.

Debbie Dick of Circleville is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Dick.

Mrs. Willa Jean Newland of near Circleville visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dennis.

The 46th annual reunion of the James M. Long family was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsberry of near Johnstown. There were 81 present.

After the picnic dinner the group was called to order by the president, Margaret Roberts for a short business meeting. Officers elected for the coming year were: Robert Morgan, president; John Goldsberry, vice president; Jean King, secretary; Johnny Brigner, treasurer; Laura Long, historian and corresponding secretary.

Relatives decided to meet again next year with Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsberry on the second Sunday of August.

The oldest present was Mrs. Nellie Long, 74, of Prospect. The youngest was James Goldsberry, 2-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Goldsberry. The afternoon was spent in fishing, visiting and playing games.

Johnson OKs $280 Million Health Research Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed a $280 million health research measure and plans to name a top-level task force to set the nation's goals.

Johnson said his panel will set national goals in education, in health and in the quest for happiness for all the world's children.

Composed of experts in and out of government under presidential leadership, he said, the task force will "tell America where we are, where we are going and how we are going to get there."

Johnson announced his plan in a ceremony at the National Institutes of Health, and at the same time announced the resignation of U.S. Surgeon General Luther Terry. Johnson said Terry will become vice president of the University of Pennsylvania after Sept. 30.

A crowd of perhaps 1,000 people stood under murky skies to hear Johnson and watch him sign the measure with dozens of souvenir pens.

A light sprinkle began falling as Johnson declared:

"As the leader of this country, I plan to set some goals. . . We do this because. . . we must advance daily or we will fail eternally."

Johnson said he will create the task force, choosing great leaders of the nation, within the next few days.

He also intended to stop in the heart surgery section. The President was felled by a heart attack in 1955, and White House press secretary Bill D.

Moyers said last Friday:

"Some of their research, he believes, helped save his own life after his heart attack."

The construction legislation extends for three years a program begun in 1956, and in which $320 million already has been distributed to 399 institutions via 1,263 construction grants.

The grants go to universities, hospitals, medical schools and nonprofit groups where they are matched on a 50-50 basis.

The 1965 measure also grants authority to the Public Health Service, under which the NIH operates, to enter into research contracts with private agencies, and creates three additional assistant secretaries in the department of health, education and welfare.

In 1937, congress authorized the first of the present institutes for the study of cancer.

Today, the NIH encompasses seven research institutes on its 305-acre tract in suburban Bethesda, Md.

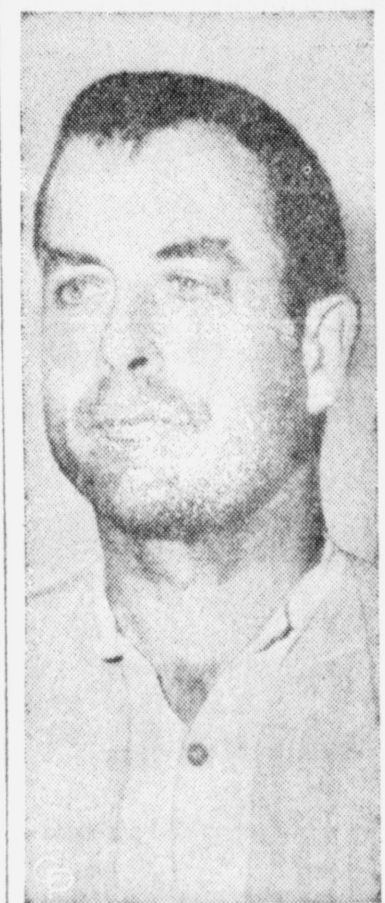

A 10-story hospital serves as the clinical center where doctors can work with patients who have a disease being studied.

The patients must be volunteers who are referred by private physicians.

Arts Group Gets Charter For Museum

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A graphic arts group which plans to establish a museum bearing the name of the publisher of Ohio's first newspaper, printed 175 years ago, has been granted a non-profit corporation charter by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

The William Maxwell Historical Printshop received the charter with Robert W. Oldham, Yellow Springs; V. Kirk Wiles, John G. Winters and August Brunsmann, all of Dayton, named as the incorporators.

The group plans to establish the museum, along with a library and hobby-craft experimental center, in Dayton.

Purpose clause of the incorporation indicates the shop will preserve and have on public display objects of historical interest relating to the histories of printing, typesetting, design of type, paper making and the origin of design in printing and typographic layout.

Darbyville

Mrs. Nelle Bauhan spent Sunday as the guest of the Harmon Carter family of Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sweet and daughter, Sue, and Pat Mason of Mt. Sterling were Saturday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schaefer of Springfield.

On the birthday are: Darlene Conley, Aug. 8; Janet Kay Neff, Aug. 11; Bertie Musselman, Aug. 12; Ed Tracy and Ned Yoakum, Aug. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Riddle will observe their anniversary on Aug. 12.

Mrs. Effie Puckett, and Mrs. John Tobin are patients in Audrey's Nursing Home, S. Scioto St., Circleville.

Wayward Father To Return Home

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Two Akron policemen have gone to Miami, Fla., to bring back George Wesig, a father of five who disappeared two years ago while swimming near Cedar Point.

Wesig, 37, faces charges here of abandoning his then-pregnant wife. FBI agents arrested him in Miami July 30, and he has remained in custody for lack of $10,000 bond. He has waived extradition and agreed to return to Ohio.

Celebrezze Gets Committee Check

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee will hold a hearing Aug. 17 on the nomination of Anthony J. Celebrezze of Cleveland to a federal circuit judgeship.

Celebrezze, who recently resigned as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, has been appointed to succeed Lester L. Cecil on the 6th Circuit Court, which serves Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Experts Hike Crop Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department forecasts this year's production of corn for grain at 4,095,960,000 bushels and of wheat at 1,376,227,000 bushels.

The corn figure is 183,924,000 bushels more than last month's forecast of 3,912,036,000 bushels. It compares with 3,548,604,000 last year and 3,817,311,000 for the five-year (1959-63) average. The wheat estimate is 22,441,000 bushels more than the department's July forecast of 1,353,813,000 bushels. It compares with the 1964 harvest of 1,290,468,000 bushels and with the five-year average of 1,189,763,000 bushels.

SALTY BABY FOOD AND HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Q. A recent newspaper article states that salt present in infant foods may be a factor in the development of high blood pressure later in life. Is this true?

A. Certain animal studies suggest such a possibility but there is no proof that the same thing applies to humans. A great many questions about high blood pressure remain unanswered. Until much more is known, limiting the salt intake of infants to prevent possible high blood pressure in adult life would be an unnecessarily illogical and unjustified procedure.

TONGUE-TIE

Q. Are some people actually tongue-tied?

A. Yes, the tongue can be so adherent that in speech, the tip is not free to touch the roof of the mouth. Difficulty is therefore encountered in making the sounds "t," "d," and "n." A simple surgical procedure corrects the mechanical defect but in the older child or adult this does not necessarily ensure proper speech. It is often necessary to follow the surgery with speech therapy to correct the faulty speech habit.

Maze described procedures following pick-up of juveniles. He also told of the great number of juveniles now on probation in Pickaway County.

Dr. Julio Sanquily of Circleville will be guest speaker of the next meeting. He had his own private hospital in Cuba when the country was taken over by Castro. He and his son both are practicing in Circleville at the present time.

The Teays Valley Athletic Booster Club will meet in the High School 8 p. m. Aug. 16. Officers of the club have invited all interested persons to attend these meetings. They said they need the help and support of all parents in the Teays Valley School district. The Club gives financial help for athletic equipment and recently financed a portion of the expenses for the cheerleaders to attend a training camp.

Den 2 of Cub Scout Pack 159 held a picnic Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Lewis Berry, den mother.

The evening was spent in dismantling the float the Den had entered in the 4th of July, Grove City and Commercial Point parades.

Plans for the overnight stay of the Pack was discussed. The campout will be Aug. 20 at the cabin of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Custer. Mrs. Berry reported that thank you notes are being sent to all companies and persons helping with the float.

Attending the cookout were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lockard and Terry, Cindy and Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Oran Hines and John, Robert and Bill, Mrs. John Sabine and Jerry, Mrs. Larry Aldenderfer and Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Pritchard and Jim and David, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Custer and Brice, Mrs. Arthur Beatty and Jim and Jeff and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Berry and Lance.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoover (Beverly Riegel) announce the birth of a son on Aug. 7. The Hoovers now reside in Bethel, O.

The Bastian Funeral Home ambulance made the following runs: July 28 — Pat McAllister to Mercy Hospital; July 29 — Eva Shannon to Mercy Hospital and returned her home; July 30 — moved James Fridley home from Dr. Hoffman's office; Aug. 3 — Sue and Lenard DeBord to Mercy Hospital; Aug. 6 — returned Mrs. George McGlone home from Mercy Hospital.

The Harrison Twp. Volunteer Fire Department made the following runs: Aug. 8 — house-trailer owned by Herb Gregg and occupied by Carl Scherz in Millport. Fire confined to a bed mattress was out on arrival of firemen, $15 loss; Aug. 8 — Emergency brake on car owner by Robert Spicer, $10 loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heil and Janice and Jeanette were Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Sabine and Susan and Jerry.

SALTY BABY FOOD AND HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE
Q. A recent newspaper article states that salt present in infant foods may be a factor in the development of high blood pressure later in life. Is this true?
A. Certain animal studies suggest such a possibility but there is no proof that the same thing applies to humans. A great many questions about high blood pressure remain unanswered. Until much more is known, limiting the salt intake of infants to prevent possible high blood pressure in adult life would be an unnecessarily illogical and unjustified procedure.
TONGUE-TIE
Q. Are some people actually tongue-tied?
A. Yes, the tongue can be so adherent that in speech, the tip is not free to touch the roof of the mouth. Difficulty is therefore encountered in making the sounds "t," "d," and "n." A simple surgical procedure corrects the mechanical defect but in the older child or adult this does not necessarily ensure proper speech. It is often necessary to follow the surgery with speech therapy to correct the faulty speech habit.
Remember—the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

FUND RAISED FOR PLASTIC SURGERY—A fund to provide plastic surgery for Gregory Chappel (left), 11, has passed the $5,000 mark in Houston, Tex. The boy's mother is charged with disfiguring him. A. R. Johnson (right) started the fund.

Historical Ohio

Southern Section of State Noted for Early Industries

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of summer tours featuring state memorials maintained by the Ohio Historical Society prepared for readers of The Herald by the Columbus Auto Club.

The Jackson, Meigs, Gallia County areas of southern Ohio take on new interest now as a portion of this state's "Appalachia".

In addition to present-day state memorials, this section was the scene of two of Ohio's oldest and most successful industries—salt-making and production of iron from charcoal furnaces.

First animals, then Indians, and later white men discovered the "salt licks" of Jackson County and made good use of them. An Ohio salt camp of the early 1800's has been described as similar to a western mining camp of a few decades later.

During the Civil War, it was said that only Spain, Turkey and southern Ohio could produce iron of sufficient quality for use in making heavy cannon. One such furnace, Buckeye Furnace, is preserved 10 miles east of Jackson near State Route 124.

Also near Jackson are the Leo Petroglyphs, preserving rocks bearing Indian pictographs.

Twenty miles east of Pomeroy is Buffington Island, only Civil War battle site on Ohio soil. Morgan's Raiders participated in the fighting here.

Historic Gallipolis is an attractive part of today's tour. First French immigrants arrived here October 19, 1790, and history records that the same evening "marquis, counts, soldiers, doctors, scholars, artisans, and laborers" joined in a dance to celebrate the event.

An early inn, now known as "Our House", is preserved and appropriately furnished. It was here in 1825 that General Lafayette was entertained. Gallipolis commemorates the Lafayette visit each spring with ceremonies at "Our House."

The Columbus Auto Club suggests this routing to the tour area: Route 23 to U. S. 35 at Chillicothe; Route 35 to Jackson and the tour area.

NOT SO FAST, NATURALLY—Margo Dunaway, Conway, Arkansas' reigning forest queen, shows the size of a year-old pine seedling growing naturally. It is less than half the size of a year-old nursery grown plant.

Cool Nights Slow Crops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Heavy showers in many areas of the state last week made a good improvement in soil moisture, but cool nights continued to slow crop development, agriculture reporters said.

The U.S. and Ohio Departments of Agriculture, cooperating with the U.S. Weather Bureau and the Ohio Agriculture Extension Service, said surveys showed corn condition improved slightly during last week.

They said the corn development is mostly good in the northern third of the state, especially in the northwest area. In the southern two-thirds, the condition is fair to good with few areas considered poor.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Whether he's in a bathrobe or a rose garden, President Johnson loves to surprise when he names a man for a big job.

And secrecy about the announcement before Johnson makes it! That's become a byword at the White House.

It goes so far that even those closest to Johnson, like Bill D. Moyers, his very able press secretary, sometimes appear left in the dark about who's getting the prize.

While this technique saves an appointee the embarrassment of public speculation about his merits for a job before he gets it, it also assures Johnson the maximum publicity.

But so far the men Johnson has picked for the highest government posts have met with wide approval. And so have most of those he's named to jobs a notch or several notches lower.

Sometimes Johnson may delay for months in making up his mind, which might indicate he has searched everywhere for suggestions on the best possible answer and then slowly winnowed the possibilities.

But there are times when he apparently decides in a hurry, which he seems to have done in the case of Abe Fortas, whom he appointed to the Supreme Court, although since Fortas was his friend and helper for 30 years there was plenty of time to figure the right place for him.

When Robert F. Kennedy resigned as attorney general last September to run for the Senate, his No. 2 man, Nicholas Katzenbach, took charge of the Justice Department.

Katzenbach seemed a likely choice for Kennedy's job. He was an able lawyer, a legal scholar, a former professor of law at the University of Chicago, and he had made a name as a fighter for civil rights.

But Johnson delayed for months. Then on Jan. 28 he invited Katzenbach and his wife to dinner at the White House.

Katzenbach said later the President was ill in bed with a cold but got up, put on a bathrobe, joined his guests and Mrs. Johnson at dinner, and there broke the news to Katzenbach that he would be the new attorney general. Perhaps Johnson searched for advice before picking a successor to Adlai E. Stevenson, who died July 14, as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. But on July 20 he named Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg.

In doing so, Johnson combined drama and surprise for the greatest possible publicity mileage. There had been a multitude of guesses about the new ambassador, but nobody seemed to have thought of Goldberg.

By James Marlow

At about 10:30 a.m. on the 20th, reporters were led into the White House rose garden to watch Johnson greet some U.S. ambassadors back from Africa for consultation.

When this was over Johnson turned back to his office, saying over his shoulder to the newsmen: "I'll be back in a moment." And he was.

But with him he had Goldberg, Mrs. Goldberg, and their son, Robert. Then Johnson announced Goldberg had "accepted the call of duty," given up his lifetime seat on the Supreme Court and would be the new ambassador.

The next question: Who'd get Goldberg's place on the court? Some of the guesses had the job going to a woman, to a Negro, to Fortas, and to others. Fortas was the one most often mentioned.

The day after Goldberg's appointment, Moyers was asked about Goldberg's successor. He said: "I have seen all the names quoted in the press and I don't think any of those are names that the President is giving consideration to."

Then Johnson chose his nationally televised news conference on July 28 to say he had picked Fortas.

It has been reported that Johnson asked Fortas, a famous lawyer with long experience in government, to take Goldberg's job within an hour or so after asking Goldberg to go to the United Nations.

Solutions Sought For Drought Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is pushing its effort to find help for those Northeastern areas with critical water problems.

A prolonged drought has hit hard at that section of the country, particularly the Delaware River Basin.

The Federal Water Resources Council will meet again Monday to discuss possible solutions to the problem.

Estonians Make Russian System Work

TALLINN, Estonia (AP) — This is perhaps the one city in the Soviet Union where the visitor may find it hard to tell the residents from Scandinavian tourists.

Conditions are so much better here than in Moscow and other part of the Soviet Union that it is difficult to remember Estonia often is cited in the West as an example of Soviet imperialism. "Why don't you write that there are no 'captive peoples' here?" one Soviet official suggested.

Soviet officials come armed with statistics purporting to show that Estonia under Soviet rule is better off than it was as an independent state.

But such claims led to a question the Russians have difficulty answering. Why is Estonia, considered an occupied country in the West, better off than the occupier?

Part of the answer is that independent Estonia was better off than Russia in 1940 when Stalin took over the Baltic states of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia.

Part of the answer is the Estonians themselves. They seem to make the heavily controlled Soviet economic system work better.

A fishing cooperative branched out into furniture, trucking, milk-raising, and boat-repair businesses on its own initiative.

A mercury rectifier factory

started in 1958 was told to manufacture the device developed by a Soviet research institute. It didn't work. Estonian engineers developed their own rectifier and are now the leading supplier.

Estonian officials say they have a relatively free hand in producing the styles of clothing Estonians want to buy. Estonian-made clothes are also popular in Moscow.

Residents can tune in Finnish television for Western news, films and ideas.

A new ferry line was opened this year to Helsinki, Finland. Tallinn is a city of old, winding cobblestone streets built on a hill overlooking the sea. It looks more like the old cities of Western Europe than like Russia.

In the Gloria Restaurant, perhaps the closest thing to a Western night club in the Soviet Union, the men wear stylish, dark Western suits and the girls smart cocktail dresses. They do the Twist.

There are four modern cafes in town, all with Scandinavian furniture, that have made Moscow newspapers often write articles with the theme, "Why can't we have cafes like they do in Tallinn?"

A Russian who looked at a two-story private home on a collective farm near here sighed:

"I'm a Muscovite and I would like to live in one of these farm homes."

In Moscow families often are crowded into one-room apartments and share common kitchen and bath facilities with other families. But they consider farm conditions worse.

In Estonia, young people also are leaving the farms for the cities. But those who remain on the farm often live better than their counterparts elsewhere in the Soviet Union.

They earned what they have. The wood home the Russian was admiring is owned by the electrician on the collective farm 15 miles from Tallinn.

He earns 100 rubles a month and his wife makes 105 as the farm veterinarian. They saved for 11 years to build the house they began two years ago. They hope to install running water soon. They have television.

One-family homes along the dirt road center of the farm village cost about 3,500 rubles each. Most of the money is borrowed. A ruble equals $1.11.

The land was privately owned before the Soviet Union incorporated Estonia. Five farms were united into the collective farm.

Farm Chairman Rudolph Mannov, a wiry, sun-bronzed man in his 40s, said the farm concentrates on cattle breeding and dairy products, but also raises grain and potatoes. Little machinery is seen.

The village has a recreation center where movies are shown twice a week. Current fare: From India, "Flower in the Dust," and from Czechoslovakia, "Prague Blues."

U.S. Postmasters Get Five-Day Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed a bill putting the majority of the nation's postmasters on a five-day, 40-hour week.

They have been subject to a six-day week.

The bill applies to about 25,000 postmasters—those in the first, second and third classes which cover cities and towns of any size.

The remaining 9,000 fourth class postmasters now have a 40-hour week, but work six days.

Merchants of Britain Said 'Clearly Gloomy'

LONDON (AP) — The Association of British Chambers of Commerce says this nation's merchants are "clearly gloomy" at the United Kingdom's foreign trade prospects.

Only a tenth of 295 merchants queried in a survey reported improving prospects, the association said.

FRENCH DESTROYER VISITS CHICAGO—The Chicago skyline serves as a majestic backdrop for the French destroyer Bouvet, moored on the Chicago River for a seven-day visit. Movies, TV Work Refute Martin's 'Lazy' Image

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "And they call me lazy!" Dean Martin said with scorn.

The allegedly lazy singer-actor was breezing through his third film of this year and preparing to continue his string of television shows, which will total 30 in the coming season.

"Not bad for a lazy guy," he muttered.

He happened on a thought that seemed to give him pleasure. "You know," he said, "when Jerry Lewis and I broke up, he said I wouldn't last two years in show business. Now what happens? He gets dropped by Paramount!"

It should be added that his partner was quickly picked up by Columbia, which signed him for a new movie, "Three on a Couch."

When Martin and Lewis split nine years ago, the wise crowd figured Dean would suffer from the breach. They didn't figure on the resourcefulness of the former Steubenville, Ohio, welterweight boxer. He has proven fast on his feet.

He demonstrates that in his new film, "The Silencers," in which he plays undercover agent Matt Helm. It's reported that Dean has enough dolls in the spy spoof to make James Bond seem like a monk.

Why is he undertaking a full season of television when he obviously is prospering in films?

"Why not?" he countered. "All this talk about how tough television is. Baloney. You know how long it takes me to do an hour television show? Four hours. Yeah, I mean it: Four hours! That's actual working time."

"I go to the studio at one in the afternoon on Sunday and I'm home at eight in the evening. I knocked off a show like that last Sunday, right in the middle of this picture. And that morning I had myself a round of golf!"

The Martin method leaves preparation of the show up to TV creators who understand his style in music and comedy. By the time Dean arrives, the script and songs are set, he reviews them briefly, then does a run-through.

"When we started out, we did a dress rehearsal, then sat around for two hours before doing the show," he added. "I cut that out. The dress rehearsal was much better than the show, because it had that quality of spontaneity."

"We make a mistake now and then. Who wants a show that is perfect?"

Dean has no concern about the weekly exposure cutting into his movie draw.

"People who watch the TV show will see me singing and telling jokes. Since I don't tell jokes on the screen, they're seeing an entirely different Martin from what they get in theaters."

One thing is certain: Martin's way of life becomes him.

"Yeah, I don't look bad for a guy who's 48," he declared. "Tell you what does it: It's that young whisky. Some guys drink that old whisky. Not me."

CONVALESCING from a triple hemorrhage suffered in February of 1965, American movie actress Patricia Neal, 39, enters the Nuffield Maternity Home in Oxford, England, to have her fifth child. With her is her British husband, script writer Ronald Dahl. (Cablephoto)

Solutions Sought For Drought Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is pushing its effort to find help for those Northeastern areas with critical water problems.

A prolonged drought has hit hard at that section of the country, particularly the Delaware River Basin.

The Federal Water Resources Council will meet again Monday to discuss possible solutions to the problem.

Estonians Make Russian System Work

TALLINN, Estonia (AP) — This is perhaps the one city in the Soviet Union where the visitor may find it hard to tell the residents from Scandinavian tourists.

Conditions are so much better here than in Moscow and other part of the Soviet Union that it is difficult to remember Estonia often is cited in the West as an example of Soviet imperialism. "Why don't you write that there are no 'captive peoples' here?" one Soviet official suggested.

Soviet officials come armed with statistics purporting to show that Estonia under Soviet rule is better off than it was as an independent state.

But such claims led to a question the Russians have difficulty answering. Why is Estonia, considered an occupied country in the West, better off than the occupier?

Part of the answer is that independent Estonia was better off than Russia in 1940 when Stalin took over the Baltic states of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia.

Part of the answer is the Estonians themselves. They seem to make the heavily controlled Soviet economic system work better.

A fishing cooperative branched out into furniture, trucking, milk-raising, and boat-repair businesses on its own initiative.

A mercury rectifier factory

started in 1958 was told to manufacture the device developed by a Soviet research institute. It didn't work. Estonian engineers developed their own rectifier and are now the leading supplier.

Estonian officials say they have a relatively free hand in producing the styles of clothing Estonians want to buy. Estonian-made clothes are also popular in Moscow.

Abstract art taboo is Moscow, is shown here.

Residents can tune in Finnish television for Western news, films and ideas.

Retailers Ask Added Racing Dates Veto

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Retail Merchants Council is calling for a gubernatorial veto of an act to increase horse racing from 44 to 50 days in the state.

George B. Hammond, council executive director, termed the act in a letter to Gov. James A. Rhodes "the worst kind of legislative action under lobby pressure."

Hammond asserted the public sentiment was against the bill and said that major Ohio newspapers opposed it editorially.

Backers estimated the additional six days of racing would increase pari-mutuel revenue to the state about $2 million a year.

New Fertilizing Blending Plant Completed at Derby

DERBY PLANT — A new fertilizer blending plant at Derby has recently been completed. The building contains five bins with storage capacity of 600 tons. The five-ton blender can handle 20 tons per hour.

A new fertilizer blending plant at Derby was opened this week according to Wayne Shidaker, vice president of Landmark's Seed, Fertilizer and Alfalfa Marketing division.

The plant was completed the last week in July and fertilizer materials were unloaded Aug. 2. The building contains five bins with a storage capacity of 600 tons and is equipped with automatic unloading and loading equipment.

The 5-ton capacity blender is scale mounted and can handle 20-tons per hour. The plant is designed so that one man can manage the entire operation under normal conditions.

Temperatures will average 2 to 5 degrees above normal. Representative normal highs and lows are Cleveland 82-59, Cincinnati 87-65 and Columbus 85-62. Warming trend until turning cooler with showers over the weekend averaging around a half inch.

Bid Opening Dates Fixed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state highway department plans to open bids next Dec. 21 on a 6½ miles section of Ohio 11, the "lake-to-river" highway, state Highway Director P. E. Masheter said.

The section is between U.S. 224 and a mile north of Ohio 18, west of Youngstown.

Four sections of the highway have been completed, three on Ohio 46 in Ashtabula County, and one U.S. 30 section in Columbiana County. A second Ohio 30 section is under construction west of East Liverpool.

Masheter said the Ohio 11 section should be under construction after Jan. 1.

The track side leg automatically unloads box or hopper cars at a rate of 40 tons per hour. On the opposite side of the structure is a loading leg connected to the blender for efficient loading of any size truck.

The completion of this plant gives the Derby location a complete service of Landmark fertilizers for farmers. Shidaker said, "This is an objective of our program to make changes to meet the needs of our modern farmer customers."

In addition to blended fertilizers there is also available liquid nitrogen and dry straight materials for single application. A complete line of Landmark Fert-o-pels are in supply both bagged and bulk.

Retailers Ask Added Racing Dates Veto

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Retail Merchants Council is calling for a gubernatorial veto of an act to increase horse racing from 44 to 50 days in the state.

George B. Hammond, council executive director, termed the act in a letter to Gov. James A. Rhodes "the worst kind of legislative action under lobby pressure."

Hammond asserted the public sentiment was against the bill and said that major Ohio newspapers opposed it editorially.

Backers estimated the additional six days of racing would increase pari-mutuel revenue to the state about $2 million a year.

New Fertilizing Blending Plant Completed at Derby

DERBY PLANT — A new fertilizer blending plant at Derby has recently been completed. The building contains five bins with storage capacity of 600 tons. The five-ton blender can handle 20 tons per hour.

A new fertilizer blending plant at Derby was opened this week according to Wayne Shidaker, vice president of Landmark's Seed, Fertilizer and Alfalfa Marketing division.

The plant was completed the last week in July and fertilizer materials were unloaded Aug. 2. The building contains five bins with a storage capacity of 600 tons and is equipped with automatic unloading and loading equipment.

The 5-ton capacity blender is scale mounted and can handle 20-tons per hour. The plant is designed so that one man can manage the entire operation under normal conditions.

The track side leg automatically unloads box or hopper cars at a rate of 40 tons per hour. On the opposite side of the structure is a loading leg connected to the blender for efficient loading of any size truck.

The completion of this plant gives the Derby location a complete service of Landmark fertilizers for farmers, Shidaker said. "This is an objective of our program to make changes to meet the needs of our modern farmer customers."

In addition to blended fertilizers there is also available liquid nitrogen and dry straight materials for single application. A complete line of Landmark Fert-o-pels are in supply both bagged and bulk.

Bid Opening Dates Fixed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state highway department plans to open bids next Dec. 21 on a 6½ miles section of Ohio 11, the "lake-to-river" highway, state Highway Director P. E. Masheter said.

The section is between U.S. 224 and a mile north of Ohio 18, west of Youngstown.

Four sections of the highway have been completed, three on Ohio 46 in Ashtabula County, and one U.S. 30 section in Columbiana County. A second Ohio 30 section is under construction west of East Liverpool.

Masheter said the Ohio 11 section should be under construction after Jan. 1.

Twins Manager Stays Cautious

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm ready for the World Series if the World Series is ready for me."

That's the closest persistent reporters came to getting Manager Sam Mele to acknowledge today that his speeding Minnesota Twins were riding on a non-stop express to the American League pennant.

Not even Tuesday night's 7-3 triumph over the New York Yankees, which boosted the Twins' first place lead over Baltimore to 8½ games, could induce Mele to abandon his calculated caution. It was Minnesota's sixth straight and 14th victory in the last 17 games.

"We've still got a long way to go," he protested. "The next three weeks are going to be rough. During that span we play the Yankees six more times, Detroit seven, Cleveland four and Chicago three. The pennant could be decided then."

Only a catastrophic collapse on their part could prevent the transplanted Twins from capturing their first pennant since 1933 when they were known as the Washington Senators. And judging from Tuesday night's performance, that is not about to happen.

Led by Zoilo Versalles, their flashy shortstop, the Twins literally ran the Yankees into the ground. They forced the once flawless Yankee defense into errors and took advantage of every lapse.

Versalles reached base against Whitey Ford in the first inning when Phil Linz fumbled his grounder, and with a daring piece of base-running, scored all the way from first as Rich Rollins stretched a hit to left field into a two-bagger.

Tony Oliva followed with a line single to center and the Twins had a 2-0 lead before Ford had retired his first batter.

The Yankees tied the score 2-2 in the seventh, but the Twins scored five runs after two were out in the eighth to wrap up the decision.

Mickey Mantle's home run in the bottom of the inning proved to be nothing more than a statistic. It was his 16th of the season and 470th of his career.

"We've got a pretty good lead," conceded Mele afterwards. "They've got to catch us now."

Would you say the World Series was a step closer, Sam? "Well," he said grinningly, "it would be a good three-way parlay for me. My wife is expecting our fifth child around that time and our new home in Quincy, Mass., will be finished around that time... but hold on, we've still got a long way to go..."

North, South Teams Clash

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Some of the finest scholastic gridirers in the state clash here Friday in the 20th annual North-South All-Star Football Game.

At least 15,000 spectators are expected to witness the action at Fawcett Stadium when the Rebels, coached by Bob Lewis of Wyoming, Ohio, gun for their fifth consecutive triumph.

The Yankees, guided by Earle Bruce of Massillon, are determined to break the hex and even the over-all series, which shows the Southerners enjoying a 9-8-2 advantage.

The Northerners haven't won the summer spectacular since 1960 when Leo Strang, the Kent State mentor who then coached at Massillon, led the Yanks to an 18-8 victory.

The contest shapes up as a test of Yankee offensive power against the stalwart defenders of the South.

The two teams started workouts 10 days ago. More than 400 coaches crammed into Canton this week for the annual coaching clinic, held in conjunction with the All-Star fray.

The North boasts a trio of outstanding quarterbacks, including Brian Dowling, 190-pound star from Cleveland St. Ignace.

Dave Foley, a 225-pound tackle from Cincinnati Roger Bacon, anchors a tough Southern line.

The Rebels have a top passer in quarterback Bill Long of Dayton Stebbins and one of the leading backs in the Buckeye State in Steubenville Central Catholic's Buster Yannon.

Top Draft Choice Decides on College

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Mike Adamson, the No. 1 choice of the Philadelphia Phillies in the professional baseball draft, says he plans to enter college this fall rather than play baseball.

Adamson, 18, said Tuesday he plans to enter professional ball after completing studies at the University of Southern California.

Noble Victory, favored to win the triple crown of trotting, comprising the Yonkers Futurity, Hambletonian and Kentucky Futurity, is part of a three-horse entry. Noble Victory, who will be driven by Stanley Dancer, is bracketed with Egyptian Candor and Marengo Hanover.

Nine 3-year-old trotters will start, but because of the entry, there will be only seven betting interests.

Noble Victory has won 23 of 24 starts and has a 16-race winning streak going 20-Game Winner Koufax Puts Aim On 30-Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sandy Koufax doesn't want any relief, but he thinks he'll need some to win 30 games.

The inimitable Koufax discussed that elusive plateau after becoming the majors' first 20-game winner in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 4-3 triumph over the New York Mets Tuesday night.

"I feel a little tired," he admitted, "but after a couple of nights sleep I'm always ready again. It would help if the weather got a little cooler. But I'm not looking for any rest. I still want to pitch every fourth day."

"I have a chance to win 30, but I would have to win every start. I really don't think I'll get 30 because you have to pick up some in relief, and I doubt that I'll be doing that."

If Koufax continues pitching every fourth day, he will have 12 more starts, enough so that he could afford to lose a couple and still become the first to win 30 since Dizzy Dean did it in 1934.

It's even possible that Manager Walt Alton will call upon the left-handed ace for some relief duty if the National League pennant race remains as close as it is now. The Dodgers lead San Francisco by only one game and Milwaukee and Cincinnati by two each.

Koufax, who has lost four games, struck out 14 Mets, and raised his major league-leading total to 267, just 81 away from Bob Feller's all-time season record. He also extended his career mark with the Mets to 13-0 and became the earliest 20-game winner since teammate Don Drysdale won his 20th on Aug. 3, 1962.

In other NL games, San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 4-3, Milwaukee downed St. Louis 5-3, Cincinnati trimmed Chicago 6-2 and Philadelphia beat Houston 2-0.

In the American League, Minnesota stopped New York 7-3, Baltimore crushed Boston 12-4

after losing 15-5, Los Angeles defeated Cleveland 5-2, Detroit blanked Kansas City 3-0 and Chicago whipped Washington 6-0.

Koufax blanked the Mets on three hits until the eighth when singles by Bobby Klaus and Roy McMillan plus Charlie Smith's double and Joe Christopher's sacrifice fly brought in two runs. Then Ron Swoboda homered in the ninth. Ron Fairly's single and Wes Parker's triple brought in what turned out to be the deciding run in the Los Angeles sixth.

Juan Marichal won his 18th game against eight defeats by limiting Pittsburgh to four hits, one of them Bill Virden's two-run homer in the ninth, Len Ga-

Local Youth Second In Jr. Olympic Event

George Coey and Gary Schumacher participated in the Junior Olympics held Friday and Saturday at Ohio State University.

Coey received second in the high jump for boys 14-15 with a jump of 5' 6". Schumacher participated in the boys 14-15 shot put and discus.

Local Kegler To Get Award For High Game

Larry Dietrich will receive an award of merit presented by the American Bowling Congress for a high individual, single game rolled during the past season.

Dietrich's 288 singleton was the highest rolled in league competition sanctioned by the Lancaster Bowling Assn.

Bob Knoop, of the Los Angeles Angels led American League second basemen in double plays last season, participating in 123.

Catcher Charley Lau of the Baltimore Orioles broke into the major leagues with the Detroit Tigers in 1956.

Third National, Savings Win Pony Tourney Tilts

Third National stormed Kochheiser, 12-3, yesterday in the second round of the winners bracket and The Savings Bank exploded on VFW, 6-3, in the first round of the losers bracket.

The Third Bankers scored in spurts as their first tally came in the second. The winners gathered five in the third, two in the fourth, were shut out in the fifth and ended with four. Kochheiser tallied two in the first and one in the third, while going scoreless the rest of the frames.

Fausnaugh, winning hurler for Third National, fanned 15 sluggers on his way to the win. Ty Akrom suffered the loss for Kochheiser, allowing 13 hits.

Fausnaugh also showed a good bat as he cracked a triple and a double for the Bankers. William Barthelmas, Gary Dumm, and Kellar tagged two baggers for the winners.

ANKROM hammered the long ball of the day as he tagged a four bagger for Kochheiser.

Steve Newman started for The Savings Bank and went five, allowing only two hits. Richard Cordle relieved and finished.

Gary Boltenhouse went the distance for the Vets, allowing 10 hits.

William Keener managed the only extra base hit of the game, a double for the winners.

The Savings Bank will meet Kochheiser Hardware 5:15 p.m. tomorrow on the Ted Lewis Park main diamond to determine the winner of the losers bracket. The winner will battle Third National for the league crown.

Here are the other games on tap for the week.

L. M. Butch and Kiwanis will meet at 5:15 p.m. today on the main diamond followed by a Little League All Star game scheduled for 7:30.

Coke meets Bingmans on the Little League diamond at the park for a 5:15 p.m. game. The winner will meet The Herald Hawks for the Little League

Ohio Girl Joins Top Golf Ranks

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Comedalist Judy Rand of Aurora, Ohio, defeated Brigitte Baranot of Paris, France, 1-up in 19 holes Tuesday as 16 top amateurs moved into today's second round of the Broadmoor Women's Invitational Golf Tournament.

Another Ohioan, Lida Fee Matthews of Portsmouth, was eliminated in the opening round of match play by Harriett Lanville, Long Beach, Calif., 2 and 1.

When Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers struck out the first seven batters he faced in relief June 15 he tied the American League record for relief pitchers set by Ryne Duren of Los Angeles in 1961. Boston was the opponent both times.

Majors championship.

Thursday finds the Little League Minor finals with Circleville Oil battling Stoutsville for the League Championship. That game will be 7:30 p.m. on the main diamond in Ted Lewis Park.

Officials Ban Show Betting On Futurity

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Noble Victory is the prohibitive 1-9 morning line choice for the $122,236 Yonkers Futurity Trot Thursday night and Yonkers Raceway was granted permission by the New York State Harness Racing Commission Tuesday to eliminate show betting on the race.

A series of minus pools during the last several weeks, amounting to nearly $20,000, prompted Yonkers officials to limit betting to win and place only.

"I feel a little tired," he admitted, "but after a couple of nights sleep I'm always ready again. It would help if the weather got a little cooler. But I'm not looking for any rest. I still want to pitch every fourth day."

"I have a chance to win 30, but I would have to win every start. I really don't think I'll get 30 because you have to pick up in relief, and I doubt that I'll be doing that."

If Koufax continues pitching every fourth day, he will have 12 more starts, enough so that he could afford to lose a couple and still become the first to win 30 since Dizzy Dean did it in 1934.

It's even possible that Manager Walt Alston will call upon the left-handed ace for some relief duty if the National League pennant race remains as close as it is now. The Dodgers lead San Francisco by only one game and Milwaukee and Cincinnati by two each.

Koufax, who has lost four games, struck out 14 Mets, and raised his major league-leading total to 267, just 81 away from Bob Feller's all-time season record. He also extended his career mark with the Mets to 13-0 and became the earliest 20-game winner since teammate Don Drysdale won his 20th on Aug. 3, 1962.

In other NL games, San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 4-3, Milwaukee downed St. Louis 5-3, Cincinnati trimmed Chicago 6-2 and Philadelphia beat Houston 2-0.

In the American League, Minnesota stopped New York 7-3, Baltimore crushed Boston 12-4

after losing 15-5, Los Angeles defeated Cleveland 5-2, Detroit blanked Kansas City 3-0 and Chicago whipped Washington 6-0.

Koufax blanked the Mets on three hits until the eighth when singles by Bobby Klaus and Roy McMillan plus Charlie Smith's double and Joe Christopher's sacrifice fly brought in two runs. Then Ron Swoboda homered in the ninth. Ron Fairly's single and Wes Parker's triple brought in what turned out to be the deciding run in the Los Angeles sixth.

Juan Marichal won his 18th game against eight defeats by limiting Pittsburgh to four hits, one of them Bill Virden's two-run homer in the ninth. Len Ga-

Local Youth Second In Jr. Olympic Event

George Coey and Gary Schumacher participated in the Junior Olympics held Friday and Saturday at Ohio State University.

Coey received second in the high jump for boys 14-15 with a jump of 5' 6". Schumacher participated in the boys 14-15 shot put and discus.

Local Kegler To Get Award For High Game

Larry Dietrich will receive an award of merit presented by the American Bowling Congress for a high individual, single game rolled during the past season.

Dietrich's 288 singleton was the highest rolled in league competition sanctioned by the Lancaster Bowling Assn.

Bob Knoop, of the Los Angeles Angels led American League second basemen in double plays last season, participating in 123.

Catcher Charley Lau of the Baltimore Orioles broke into the major leagues with the Detroit Tigers in 1956.

Third National, Savings Win Pony Tourney Tilts

Third National stormed Kochheiser, 12-3, yesterday in the second round of the winners bracket and The Savings Bank exploded on VFW, 6-3, in the first round of the losers bracket.

The Third National's scored in spurts as their first tally came in the second. The winners gathered five in the third, two in the fourth, were shut out in the fifth and ended with four. Kochheiser tallied two in the first and one in the third, while going scoreless the rest of the frames.

Fausnaugh, winning hurler for Third National, fanned 15 sluggers on his way to the win. Ty Akrom suffered the loss for Kochheiser, allowing 13 hits.

Fausnaugh also showed a good bat as he cracked a triple and a double for the Bankers. William Barthelmas, Gary Dumm, and Kellar tagged two baggers for the winners.

ANKROM hammered the long ball of the day as he tagged a four bagger for Kochheiser.

Steve Newman started for The Savings Bank and went five, allowing only two hits. Richard Cordle relieved and finished.

Gary Boltenhouse went the distance for the Vets, allowing 10 hits.

William Keener managed the only extra base hit of the game, a double for the winners.

The Savings Bank will meet Kochheiser Hardware 5:15 p.m. tomorrow on the Ted Lewis Park main diamond to determine the winner of the losers bracket. The winner will battle Third National for the league crown.

Here are the other games on tap for the week.

L. M. Butch and Kiwanis will meet at 5:15 p. m. today on the main diamond followed by a Little League All Star game scheduled for 7:30.

Coke meets Bingmans on the Little League diamond at the park for a 5:15 p. m. game. The winner will meet The Herald Hawks for the Little League

Ohio Girl Joins Top Golf Ranks

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.

(AP)—Comedalist Judy Rand of Aurora, Ohio, defeated Brigitte Barangot of Paris, France, 1-up in 19 holes Tuesday as 16 top amateurs moved into today's second round of the Broadmoor Women's Invitational Golf Tournament.

Another Ohioan, Lida Fee Matthews of Portsmouth, was eliminated in the opening round of match play by Harriett Lanville, Long Beach, Calif., 2 and 1.

When Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers struck out the first seven batters he faced in relief June 15 he tied the American League record for relief pitchers set by Ryne Duren of Los Angeles in 1961. Boston was the opponent both times.

Majors championship.

Thursday finds the Little League Minor finals with Circleville Oil battling Stoutsville for the League Championship. That game will be 7:30 p. m. on the main diamond in Ted Lewis Park.

Boxing Rules Win Approval In Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee has approved legislation to give Uncle Sam broad authority over professional boxing matches broadcast by radio and television.

The bill was introduced following the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston bout in Lewiston, Maine, in May, which ended in a controversial one-round knockout.

The measure would establish a three-man federal boxing commission, to be appointed by the President, with authority to license—or refuse licenses—to practically anyone involved in a fight, including promoters, managers, referees and the boxers themselves.

In approving the legislation, endorsed by many boxing figures in recent hearings, the House Interstate Commerce Committee explained the commission's surveillance authority would extend to:

1. Use of television radio and other state and foreign communications facilities, and
2. Those professional boxing contests which are covering by means of such facilities.

The committee said in a statement:

"It is the purpose of the legislation to establish a Federal Boxing Commission with adequate authority to exercise continuing surveillance over professional boxing matches which are broadcast by television or radio, or which are disseminated by wire in interstate or commerce either to be received on home receivers or in theaters, arenas or other places of assembly.

The legislation would authorize the commission to bar "coverage by television, radio and other interstate or foreign communications facilities" of matches that violate commission orders or appear affected by collusion, racketeering, bribery and the like.

Shoe Tournament Reaches Finale

KEENE, N.H. (AP) — Elmer Hohl of Wellesley, Out., the Canadian National champion, and Floyd Toole of Little Rock, Ark., were tied for the lead today as the National Horseshoe Tournament entered its final stage.

Hohl and Toole each claimed 28-2 records with five rounds left to go. Ray Martin of Philo, Ill., was third at 27-3 and Paul Focht of Dayton, Ohio, was fourth with a 26-4 record.

Defending champion Harold Reno of Sabina, Ohio, dropped out of contention Tuesday night when he lost his final three matches for a 25-5 record.

When Cleto Boyer of the New York Yankees homered off Minnesota Twin John Klippstein for his ninth home run of the season it was the first four-bagger Boyer had hit off a right-handed pitcher this year.

Los Angeles Takes Tribe

Cleveland Fails At Plate, Mound

CLEVELAND (AP) — What's wrong with the Cleveland Indians, who have lost six of their last 10 games?

"This pitching goes in cycles," Tribe Manager Birdie Tebbetts said Tuesday night after Cleveland lost 5-2 to Los Angeles.

"I think we're at the end of a cycle.

"When a ball club isn't scoring you've just got to look bad."

Tebbetts said he thought the Indians showed signs of coming to life against the Angels.

"I think it's over," he said after the game," adding:

"We do so well against the contenders, we'll start looking forward to meeting them."

The Tribe opens a four-game series with Minnesota Friday.

A fan waiting outside the clubhouse didn't agree with Tebbetts.

"There's something the matter with that club," he muttered as he watched the players come out quietly.

There wasn't much to cheer about in the game, except that the Indians finally scored a run off Angel pitchers.

The Indians ended a streak of 44 scoreless innings against the Angels with a run in the sixth. Dick Howser singled, advanced on Chuck Hinton's single and a wild pitch and raced home when Leon Wagner grounded out.

Cleveland added an unearned run in the eighth on Vic Davalillo's bases-loaded sacrifice fly.

Big gun for the seventh-place Angels was ex-Indian Joe Adcock, who drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a single.

Steve Hargan, rookie right-hander for the Tribe, suffered his first major league defeat. He worked six innings, allowing six hits and struck out four.

The third-place Indians, now trailing league-leading Minnesota by 10 games, face the Angels again tonight. Ralph Terry will oppose Los Angeles' George Brunet.

"I'm supposed to hit some bad shots because I don't play the game for a living," said amateur golfer Deane Beaman during the U. S. Open. He shot 290 to tie for 11th place.

Outfielder Cowan Sold to Braves

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The New York Mets, who recently sold outfielder Billy Cowan to their Buffalo farm club in the International League said Tuesday that he has been re-sold by the Bisons to the Milwaukee Braves.

The announcement said in exchange for Cowan the Mets will receive an undesignated player within the next week and another player at the end of the season.

THAT PGA LAYOUT—Here is the layout of the Laurel Valley golf club at Ligonier, Pa., scene of the PGA championship. It is Arnold Palmer's home course. It runs 7,090 yards with a par 71. The PGA is the only big event which Palmer has failed to win.

PGA Defender Nichols Smiles at Wet Weather

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Bobby Nichols is no friend of fair weather. He likes it rainy and damp.

And he hopes the chilling wetness that has enveloped these Western Pennsylvania highlands olds right through the four days of the Professional Golfers' Association Championship opening Thursday.

"This my kind of weather," said the defending PGA champion Tuesday during a practice round at the Laurel Valley Club. He stood in the drizzle and looked at the gloomy skies. "I like to play in weather like this," he said. "I like my shots to go out there and hold. It's much better for me than when it's dry and fast, and the ball rolls."

Rain hit this area last week after a long dry spell, and it's made a considerable difference in the rolling, 7,090-yard Laurel Valley layout.

The course is playing longer. The balls are hitting and holding on the fairways and greens, and in the rough and mushy traps.

As the defending champion and a slugger on a course that favors sluggers, Nichols is in the upper echelon among the field of 167 entered in the four-day, 72-hole event.

The favorite is Jack Nicklaus, the chunky Masters champion who comes into the PGA after two rich tour victories in a row. Right behind is South Africa's Gary Player, the U.S. Open winner, and such prominent tourists as Tony Lema and Billy Casper.

If it were up to the fans, however, it would be Arnold Palmer in a landslide. This is the slumping belter's native territory, and Laurel Valley is, in fact, his home club.

The field will be cut to low 70 and ties after Friday's second round.

Portions of the final two rounds will be carried on network television by ABC Saturday and Sunday.

News of World in Brief

DETROIT (AP)—It will be a case of business joining labor when the son of Commerce Secretary John T. Connor marries the daughter of Michigan's AFL-CIO chief, August (Gus) Scholle.

John Connor Jr., 24, and Susan Scholle, 21, are engaged to be married in December. Both are students at Harvard University Law School.

WASHINGTON (AP)— Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was a surprise guest Tuesday night at a farewell dinner for 133 teen-age air cadets from 21 foreign nations.

He told the cadets, here on a Civil Air Patrol exchange program, to return to their countries with a message of fellowship and friendship from the United States.

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Former film star Hedy Lamarr says she is without funds, but a Superior Court commissioner declined Tuesday to hold her sixth husband in contempt in a disputed alimony.

Commissioner Frank B. Sottdard ruled that Lewis W. Boies Jr., apparently did not wilfully refuse to pay the alimony.

Miss Lamarr, 50, charged that Boies was two months delinquent in his alimony of $1,250-a-month. They were married in 1963 and were divorced last June.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Actor Raymond Burr—known to television audiences as attorney Perry Mason—was released Tuesday from Cedars of Lebanon Hospital after several days of tests.

He had been admitted to the hospital for diagnosis of an infection contracted during a trip to Viet Nam.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Thurgood Marshall, U.S. solicitor general-designate, says he believes capital punishment will be abolished throughout the United States.

Marshall told a news conference Tuesday "there is a clear tendency to favor abolition and the trend tells it is on its way out, although prosecuting attorneys would fight like mad against it."

In 1964, the law provided for the death penalty in forty-two states, the District of Columbia and by the federal government.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)— The mother of New Zealand's quintuplets held two of her babies for the first time today and then went home from the hospital.

Shirley Ann Lawson gave their bottles to Deborah and Shirlene. It was the first time she was allowed to touch any of the five babies born July 27.

The quint — four girls and a boy — are remaining for a while in the hospital's special nursing unit.

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Air Force has ordered modification and overhaul work on Titan 2 missile sites suspended until investigation of Monday's fatal accident at the Searcy, Ark., silo is completed. Work on 21 of the 54 silos has been completed, a spokesman said today.

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Marines are changing their recruiting policy to meet an authorized 30,000 increase in their active strength.

A spokesman said they now will try to sign up a limited number of immediate active duty reservists.

This means the men will be recruited as reserves, but will serve a two-year hitch before reverting to that status.

The regular Marine enlistment is for four years.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— Three men charged with being agents of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency were executed by firing squads in Cuba, Havana Radio said today.

The executed men were identified as Roberto Fernandez-Cobo, Raul Pereira Castaneda and Roger Sabino Sopena, all crew members of the Cuban freighter "Gonzalez Lines."

LIBERTY, N.Y. (AP)— Fire raged through a Catskills resort hotel as 30 guests slept today, killing one man and slightly injuring 14 others.

State police said the ruins of the Prospect Hotel ear Parksville were being searched on the possibility that two more persons might have died.

Personnel Change Is Made At General Electric Plant

A personnel change at General Electric's Circleville Lamp plant has been announced by E. G. Grigg, plant manager.

John H. Chesson Jr., a member of General Electric's Manufacturing Training Program, has transferred to the firm's Large Jet Engine Department at Evendale, O.

Chesson joined General Electric at Circleville in August of 1964. He held assignments in quality control engineering and shop operations here.

A native of Bedford, Va., Chesson is a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute where he was awarded a BS degree in industrial engineering. He served four years in the United States Army where he held the rank of 1st Lt. and saw duty in the European Theater.

SUCCESSOR Chesson is Robert L. Faulconer, 22, also a member of General Electric's Manufacturing Training Program. He will be initially assigned to shop operations.

A native of Orange, Va., Faulconer is also a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute where he recently earned a BS degree in electrical engineering.

He is married and resides at Garden Plaza. His wife, June, will teach in the Circleville school system beginning this fall.

Laurelville News

By Mrs. Ray Poling

Miss Mary Katherine Pritchard and Michael Robert DeLong were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony Sunday evening at the First Evangelical United Brethren Church by Rev. Roy Gearhart.

The bridesmaid was Mrs. Connie Shaffer, sister of the groom. The best man was Mr. Fred Shaffer, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marcine Frazier of Adelphi. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer DeLong of Laurelville.

Mr. DeLong is employed at the Super Duper Market in Circleville.

Attending the wedding were Mrs. Marcine Frazier, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Strosnider at son, Mr. and Mrs. Omar DeLong and Mr. and Mrs. Hayward Pritchard.

The Women's Society of Christian Service met Wednesday morning for a breakfast brunch at the home of Mrs. Melvin Mettler, with Mrs. Mervin McClelland and Miss Goldie Byers as hostesses. For devotions Mrs. Mildred Armstrong read the 96th Psalm and a poem "Our Flag". Refreshments of fruit, rolls and coffee were served to 24 members and three guests, Miss Anna Bowers, Mrs. Alice Morris and Mrs. Raymond Maxson.

Miss Mary K. Pritchard was honored with a bridal shower at the Laurelville Village Park. Games and refreshments were enjoyed throughout the evening. Guests were Mrs. Nell Swackhammer, Mrs. Lewis Newland, Pat Bethel, Mrs. Joyce Van Curen, Mrs. Dorothy Haynes, Blanch Hettinger, Loretta Hettinger, Ruth Henderson, Mrs. Dan DeLong and daughter, Sharon, Miss Carol West, Miss Carolyn Pontius, Miss Kay Meenach, Mrs. Martha Ebert, Shelby Robinette, Mrs. Hattie Black, Mrs. Ola Van Fossen, Mrs. J. Showel, Mrs. Gladys Karshner, Mazie Evans, Evelyn Schalwalbuck, Barbara Mercer, Marcine Frazier, Katie DeLong and Katherine Pritchard.

Gifts were sent by Donigee Greene, Martha Ash, Helen and Janet Ebert, Mrs. Charles Weaver, Mrs. George Hunt and Shirley, Mrs. Joe Black, Jean Herron and Pat Herron and Mrs. Claude Churchheus.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Chilcote and family of Columbus were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Chilcote.

News of World in Brief

DETROIT (AP)—It will be a case of business joining labor when the son of Commerce Secretary John T. Connor marries the daughter of Michigan's AFL-CIO chief, August (Gus) Scholle.

John Connor Jr., 24, and Susan Scholle, 21, are engaged to be married in December. Both are students at Harvard University Law School.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was a surprise guest Tuesday night at a farewell dinner for 133 teen-age air cadets from 21 foreign nations.

He told the cadets, here on a Civil Air Patrol exchange program, to return to their countries with a message of fellowship and friendship from the United States.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former film star Hedy Lamarr says she is without funds, but a Superior Court commissioner declined Tuesday to hold her sixth husband in contempt in a disputed alimony.

Commissioner Frank B. Sottdard ruled that Lewis W. Boies Jr., apparently did not wilfully refuse to pay the alimony.

Miss Lamarr, 50, charged that Boies was two months delinquent in his alimony of $1,250 a month. They were married in 1963 and were divorced last June.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Raymond Burr—known to television audiences as attorney Perry Mason — was released Tuesday from Cedars of Lebanon Hospital after several days of tests.

He had been admitted to the hospital for diagnosis of an infection contracted during a trip to Viet Nam.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) —Thurgood Marshall, U.S. solicitor general-designate, says he believes capital punishment will be abolished throughout the United States.

Marshall told a news conference Tuesday "there is a clear tendency to favor abolition and the trend tells it is on its way out, although prosecuting attorneys would fight like mad against it."

In 1964, the law provided for the death penalty in forty-two states, the District of Columbia and by the federal government.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — The mother of New Zealand's quintuplets held two of her babies for the first time today and then went home from the hospital.

Shirley Ann Lawson gave their bottles to Deborah and Shirlene. It was the first time she was allowed to touch any of the five babies born July 27.
